Registration: No One Missing in Action

Registration week on campus has, in the past, been a lesson in patience and endurance. Usually there have been long, hungry, thirsty line-ups for muffins and coffee, with traffic often going in four directions at once. In the past, it was not unusual for a staff member to be accosted by a totally lost, panic-stricken student with only five minutes left to change a course.

However, no complaints have been heard (yet) this year. Students are being whisked through registration lines in only half an hour, and seem to have no major problems getting their timetables arranged. People at the Student Access Centre are amazed at how well prepared students have been, with proper signatures and forms correctly completed. One staff member noted that this year "they even seem to know how their student loan applications have to be filled out."

Our latest 1985 figures indicate a rise in the number of undergraduate students registered: 12,064 new applicants as compared to 11,793 in 1984, and 6,883 re-applications compared to 7,202 in 1984.

Meanwhile, on the commercial side, Edmonton Telephones enlisted the aid of a walking telephone to shake hands and dispense flyers advertising the phone centre on campus, set up temporarily in the Physical Education Building. By 6 September they had sold approximately 130 souvenir red phones, and rented some 600 newer models. □

United Way Campaign Starts Next Week

The Edmonton and Area United Way Campaign will start on 19 September and end on 31 October. The University of Alberta objective this year is $180,000. This is the same objective as in the previous two campaigns.

Near the end of September, every employee of the University should receive a kit containing information about the United Way, a contribution form and a return envelope. Please remember that every contribution, however large or small, will make a difference.

Volunteers are needed to help with the campaign. Such tasks as assembling the kits and attaching the mailing labels require the help of volunteers. If you can help in the campus United Way Campaign, telephone Brendan O'Neill (432-5227) or Don Richards (432-4916). □

United We Stand

Don Wheaton, Sr. is not daunted by a challenge. United Way General Campaign Chairman, he realizes that the community is fighting a pitched battle with economic uncertainty. While unemployment is lower now than at a corresponding time last year, it remains uncomfortably high.

"Forty-nine percent of those who are unemployed are heads of households and, in fact, it is estimated that more than 15 percent of the families in our community are below the poverty line. The stress and distress related to this situation has resulted in increased need for social programs throughout all levels of our society," Mr. Wheaton says.

The United Way can make a difference. Contributions mean help for the unemployed, for families in crisis, for children at risk, for troubled youth, for victims of suicide, for the physically and mentally dis-for the physically and mentally disabled and for isolated seniors. A person's gift to the campaign provides funding to more than 100 essential services. One in three Edmonton and area residents are direct beneficiaries of United Way-funded services.

Volunteers contribute almost one million hours of service to the United Way annually, making it the single largest voluntary fundraiser in the city. Studies show that the United Way remains one of the most cost-efficient fundraisers in the community.

Mr. Wheaton and the team of volunteers plan to raise $5,708,835. These monies will allow United Way to:

- Maintain the more than 100 human care programs within the Canadian Red Cross (the United Way's partner) and 40 member agencies, including the Arthritis Society - Alberta Division, the Association for the Hearing Handicapped, the Family Service Division and the Sexual Assault Centre.
- Fund several new and expansion programs within the participating agencies.
- Maintain an effective level of funding for special service projects to meet new and emergent needs.

The United Way Campaign happens only once a year so, to echo its new slogan, "Good things can happen—if you play your part." □

Canadian Encyclopedia Sure to Please

The observation in "Pogo" that "we have met the enemy and he is us" once held true as regards the Canadian identity and our reluctance to embrace it. No more. Not with the publishing of the Canadian Encyclopedia, a three-volume work that contains just about everything found under the (Canadian) sun.

Mel Hurtig, whose firm published the Encyclopedia, said the intention from the beginning was to produce a low-cost encyclopedia that the average family could have in its home. What that family and the other 154,499 owners of the set will have is thousands of carefully researched and clearly written articles and a plethora of maps and drawings. It is estimated that if a reader read 20,000 words a day, eight hours a day, he would come to the closing article six and a half months later.

At a luncheon at the Centre Club last Thursday, Hurtig, Canadian Encyclopedia Project Vice-President and Managing Director Frank McGuire, and Editor-in-Chief Jim Marsh formally recognized this University's contribution to the five-year undertaking, unquestionably the biggest publishing job in Canadian history.

At a coming out party for the Canadian Encyclopedia, Mel Hurtig (left) paid tribute to the University's participation in the project. President Horowitz and seven others—Lorne Leitch, David Norwood, Dale Bent, Len Young, Bernie Cordell, Douglas Martin and Bernadette Quenneville—were given complimentary sets in advance of the opening of cross-country sales. Ron Phillips, who was unable to attend the luncheon, will receive a set in the near future. A page near the beginning of volume A records the effort put forth by the University in bringing an idea to fruition.

All typesetting for the $12 million project was done by Printing Services. The editorial offices were housed on campus and Computing Services, the Library and numerous academic units delivered the goods when called upon. Harry Gunning, Chairman of the Encyclopedia's National Advisory Board, said the association with the University constituted "a major card of entry" to the broad base of scholarly affairs.

Editor Marsh recalled the days when he and four others went from department to department seeking advice. That the group made a favorable impression is reflected in the fact that 360 members of staff contributed to the Encyclopedia. "People were always just a phone call away," Marsh told the luncheon guests.

Looking none the worse for wear, the Torontonian said there was "so much involved with getting someone to write an article and then having it verified. We have massive files on articles as brief as 150 words."

President Horowitz, who received one of 100 gold-finished sets of the Encyclopedia earlier in the week, reported that he went through the first volume and part of the second in just two days. He encountered a "super section" on Canadian literature and was quite taken with the treatment of culture in general. Dr. Horowitz said the University has learned a lot from being involved in the entire operation (the agreement with the publishers was endorsed by the Board of Governors in May 1980). "In a sense we see the Encyclopedia as ours."

If Hurtig's projections hold, all sets will be sold by Christmas. Eaton's, for example, has ordered 10,000 sets and, as of 4 September, 7,200 of them had been purchased.

Translation into French is about 75 percent complete and publication is scheduled for fall 1987.

"We aimed for appearance and readability more than anything else," Bernie Cordell of Printing Services said. Webster's Ninth was the bible when it came to spelling and hyphenation. Unlike many encyclopedias, the Canadian Encyclopedia has an index. Another nice feature is that, wherever appropriate, articles are signed.

Besides the distribution of the special editions and the gifting of schools and libraries across Canada, sets will be sent to 42 countries and to every state in the U.S. □

A Milestone Birthday for Theoretical Physics Institute

The Theoretical Physics Institute has attained the half century mark. Since its opening in the autumn of 1960, one of the Institute's foremost activities has been to invite distinguished theoreticians for various lengths of time. To share in the marking of the anniversary, the same modus operandi will be followed. Between 18 and 20 September, Nobel laureate Julian Schwinger, Dirk ter Haar, Oxford University, and Don Betts, Dalhousie University, will give lectures in the Tory Turtle.

H. Schiff of the Institute told Folio that each lecturer will speak in a historical vein and follow that with a more specialized address. Ergo, such topics as "The Nature and nurture of theoretical physics in Canada," "Ergodic theory, a historical survey," and "Turbulence in plasma and fluid."

Dr. Schwinger was a prodigy—he wrote his first paper when he was 17 and took his doctorate at 21. In 1947, he developed quantum electrodynamics on his own and succeeded in explaining the Lamb shift, the anomalous magnetic movement of the electron, and so forth. Few were taken by surprise when he became full professor at Harvard University at the age of 29. He received the Nobel prize in 1965. Currently a professor at the University of California in Los Angeles, his work leans heavily toward mathematical physics.

Dirk ter Haar has been a research fellow at Bohr's Institute in Copenhagen, a professor at Purdue, and a lecturer at St. Andrews. Since 1956, he has been at Oxford where he is a fellow of Magdalen College and University Reader in Theoretical Physics.

Dr. Betts was Professor of Physics for a number of years and earned a reputation as a polished broadcaster on scientific activities. He is now Dean of Arts and Science at Dalhousie.

Among the distinguished scholars whom the Institute has brought to campus for extended visits are H. Ezawa, Gakushuin University; Y. Fujimoto, ICTP; M. Martellini, University of Milan; and D. Pavon, University of Barcelona. Short-term guests include R. Baxter, Australian National University; E.W. Fenton, National Research Council; H. Fröhlich, University of Liverpool; M. Konuma, Keio University; and C.Y. Huang, Los Alamos Lab. All visitors exchange research information, and a good many present seminars which are attended by faculty and students.

In turn, members of the Institute are invited to speak at universities throughout the world and these external activities involve presentations at seminars, invited talks and positions as visiting scientists. Members have been asked to such institutions as Institut für Theoretische Physik, Göttingen, University of Innsbruck, Tokyo University, Istituto Italiano per gli Studi Filosofici, Napoli, and the Centre de Physique Théorique.

The Theoretical Physics Institute was the brainchild of L.E.H. Trainor, now at the University of Toronto. It was officially opened by H. Fröhlich, F.R.S., of the University of Liverpool. The charter permanent members were Dr. Betts, the late A.B. Bhatia, Dr. Schiff, Dr. Trainor, W. Israel, R.O.A. Robinson (deceased), W.T. Sharp (deceased), and M. Wyman.

The Institute consists of permanent members who hold regular permanent academic appointments in one or more departments, post-doctoral fellows, research associates and support staff. The fields of research are general relativity, field theory, elementary particles, condensed matter and nuclear physics.

Y. Takahashi is the current director of the Institute. (Each director serves a three-year term.)□

Helping Teachers to Help the Teachers

Richard Tiberius was on campus recently to conduct "A quick course in peer consultation", the first of this term's workshops in CITL's program of courses for the improvement of teaching and learning.

The focus of the workshop was on techniques of getting feedback from students, a process Dr. Tiberius believes is most effectively performed for a teacher by a peer consultant.

In an interview with Folio, he said that in teaching, content and process are distinct and separate parts. Content is the teacher's professional prerogative, but process is the concern of the student. A teacher who wants to improve the process and asks students for their suggestions may not find the replies very helpful. The objections are sometimes to course content—which is not something students are necessarily competent to evaluate; and other times students may be too polite, or too kind, to tell the brutal truth about how they perceive the teaching process they are being subjected to. Yet teachers need to know how students perceive them, and whether their teaching processes are helping learning or hindering it. This is where a peer consultant, with experience of effective teaching processes and skilled in the ways of eliciting feedback from students, can be very helpful.

Our University, Dr. Tiberius

commented, is the only university he knows of that has established peer consultation as an on-going process within its own Faculties. He added, in an aside, that teacher skills are one thing, but student skills are quite another. He found it interesting that there is much emphasis on improving teaching and many courses are given on the subject; but he has yet to hear of workshops for students to learn how to improve their learning and studying skills.

Dr. Tiberius, whose early graduate work was in the psychology of motivation, has a PhD in psychology, with a minor in moral philosophy. He holds an appointment in the Division of Studies in Medical Education in the Faculty of Medicine at the University of Toronto, and is also on the staff at OISE where he teaches a graduate course on strategies for the enhancement of the teaching and learning process in post-secondary institutions.

CITL's fall program is available from Bente Roed Cochran at 432-2826.□

Graduate Teaching Assistants to Have Teaching Skills Workshops

Graduate teaching assistants will find much to help them in their teaching responsibilities in the workshops put together especially for them this month by the Committee for the Improvement of Teaching and Learning.

There are 13 presentations, covering a variety of topics. Some sessions are designed especially for the beginning teacher. Others are for those with more experience.

A new course this year has been designed especially for graduate teaching assistants from non-English-speaking countries: "Tangible Tips for Teaching at the U of A."

Among other subjects covered are "Basic guidelines for language teachers," "Teaching in the laboratory," "Approaching your first class," "Practical advice on lecturing," and "Marking written assignments."

All workshops are free. They take place on different days, in different places and at different times. Further information from Bente Roed Cochran, 230 Assiniboia Hall, 432-2826.□

Alumnus Named Canada Council Director

Peter Roberts, currently Canada's Envoy to the Soviet Union, has been named Director of the Canada Council. He will replace Michael Porteous effective 1 October.

Mr. Roberts, who graduated from this University in 1949 with a BED and an MA in 1951, is a Rhodes Scholar who studied English at Oxford from 1951 to 1953. After lecturing in English at Bishop's University in Lennoxville, Quebec, he joined External Affairs in 1955 and was posted to the Soviet Union. Roberts returned to Ottawa in 1959 as head of External's Soviet desk. According to records in our Office of Alumni Affairs, he was described by his mother in 1957 as a "budding diplomat."

Roberts' mother was right. In 1962, her son went to Hong Kong as Trade Commissioner, thence to Ho Chi Min City (Saigon) in 1965 as Political Adviser to the International Control Commission and to Washington, D.C., as a political counsellor. In 1969, Roberts was appointed Deputy Head of the permanent Canadian delegation to NATO. Assistant Undersecretary of State for Cultural Affairs from 1973 to 1979, Roberts fulfilled his mother's prediction when in August of 1979 he was appointed Ambassador to Romania. He remained in this position until his appointment to Moscow in 1983.

Maureen Forrester, a graduate of the same secondary school in Montreal as President Horowitz, remains Canada Council Chairman. □

Tom Berger Keynote Speaker at St. Stephen's College Convocation

Thomas Berger, recently referred to by Allan Fotheringham as the man who made Canadians think, will be the St. Stephen's College Fall Convocation speaker at All Saints' Anglican Cathedral on 25 September at 8 p.m.

The Hon. Thomas Berger is a person of several careers—a former politician, judge, author and Royal Commissioner. He is noted for the two commitments that have shaped his life and drawn media attention: to Native peoples and to the environment that sustains them. Berger is currently completing a two-year study of the future course of the Native people of Alaska, and his report will soon be published in book form by the New York house of Farrar, Strauss and Giroux under the title, Village Journey.

His book, Fragile Freedoms, examines the history of dissent and human rights in Canada. It is a book about minorities and dissenters and their struggles, victories and defeats. It sharpens our perception of ourselves and our values as Canadians. Developed from a series of lectures, Fragile Freedoms is a challenging, sometimes disturbing and absorbing contribution to our understanding of earlier times and the quest to be just in our own time.

Berger most recently had agreed to undertake the defence of Richard Price, an alumnus of St. Stephen's College and the University of Alberta. Price had been charged by the federal government with breach of trust for leaking documents regarding funding cuts for Native services to Terry Anderson, a former faculty member of St. Stephen's.

In the minds of many Canadians, Berger is the one name to be associated with the celebrated MacKenzie Valley Pipeline, since he was the one-man Royal Commission that galvanized Canadian popular opinion with respect to that project. His decision regarding the current report on the future course of Native people of Alaska will presumably have a large impact on the American government.

Appointed to the Supreme Court of British Columbia at the age of 38, Berger was once again the focus of public attention during the patriating of the Constitution. At that time, he spoke out to protest the exclusion of women and Native peoples from the Charter of Rights and Freedoms. Chief Justice Bora Laskin deemed it inappropriate that a Justice of a Provincial Supreme Court make such comments and Berger stepped down from the Bench to return to private life.

At the 25 September Convocation, honorary degrees will be awarded The Reverend Jack Colclough, Minister of Knox Metropolitan United Church; Sherburne McCurdy, immediate Past President of Alberta College; and the Hon. Ralph G. Steinhauer, former Lieutenant-Governor of Alberta.

Thomas Berger

A graduate theological school of the United Church of Canada, St. Stephen's College has been affiliated with the University since 1908. □

Advisory Committee on Women's Studies 'Books' Dale Spender

Many Albertans will need no introduction to Dale Spender. Her prolific writings and feminist analyses of language, literature and history ensure that she is well-read around the world. Her most recent books include Man Made Language (1980), Women of Ideas and What Men Have Done to Them—from Aphra Behn to Adrienne Rich (1982), and There's Always Been a Women's Movement This Century (1983). She has also edited several other books and is the founding editor of Women's Studies International Quarterly, a scholarly, multidisciplinary women's studies journal.

Through the efforts of the Advisory Committee on Women's Studies and with financial assistance from the Endowment Fund for the Future, Spender will be a Distinguished Guest Lecturer at the University of Alberta from 19 September to 3 October. During her stay, she will give four public lectures as well as several smaller seminar presentations.

On 23 September, Spender will speak on "Mothers of the Novel; 106 Good Women Novelists Before Jane Austen." This lecture will address how and why women "invented" the novel, and how and why men have claimed this forum as their own (and have been perceived to be better at it).

The next day (2 to 3:30 p.m.), Spender will give a public seminar at Athabasca University on "Reflecting Men." In this talk she will examine the ways that women manage men's egos. The lecture draws on the title of a forthcoming book with Andre Deutsch which focusses on Virginia Woolf's thoughts that for centuries women have served as looking glasses for men, reflecting them at twice their normal size.

"The Silence of Women" will be the topic on 26 September. In this lecture Spender will look at how women are silenced in language and in culture. She will examine the "absence" of women's meanings in semantics, the curriculum and in the selective recording of history.

In her final public lecture at the University of Alberta, Spender's topic will again be "Reflecting Men." The date for this lecture is 1 October. The lectures on 23 and 26 September and 1 October will be held in L-1 Humanities Centre from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. The lectures are open to the public and admission is free. □

Native Student Affairs Experiences Name Change

The Office of Native Student Affairs is now Native Student Services.

Acting Director Jeannine Laboucane says the change is part of the new directions for the office in which it has become strictly a student service unit for native students on campus and in the native community.

The name change also connects with current developments in the School of Native Studies on campus. Tom Pocklington was recently appointed Interim Director of the School. □

Edmonton Terry Fox Run — 15 September

The fifth annual Edmonton Terry Fox Run will be held 15 September at 1 p.m. at the Students' Union Building. The 10 kilometer run is being endorsed by the Students' Union and President Horowitz, and pledge sheets can be picked up at 7-11 Stores, the YMCA and YWCA, Shoppers Drug Marts, and Collegiate Sportsworld. □

Youth was Served (and Will be Again)

In two 10-day sessions, about 200 enthusiastic young people in grades 9 through 12 explored classrooms and labs, listened to stimulating lectures and participated in seminar-like discussions. They were students in the University's first Summer Youth University (SYU).

In advance of SYU, a review of summer "mini-universities" was initiated by the Physics and Mathematics Departments. In cooperation with the Faculties of Extension and Physical Education, SYU '85 was patterned after Manitoba's mini-university and the Universities of Calgary, York in Toronto, Simon Fraser in Vancouver and Dalhousie in Halifax, who are all developing and operating summer programs for junior and senior high school students. In exposing these students to the campus and University-type material, one of the aims of SYU is to assist young people in identifying their scholastic objectives as well as their own personal life goals.

SYU '85 offered a choice of three different programs; two a mix of arts and science courses, which were repeated, and the third a "math immersion" program. Each program combined daily academic classes with instruction in such sports as archery (a favorite), orienteering, floor hockey, racquetball, and weightlifting and aerobics (topped off with an hour of recreational swimming).

We don't know if these participants were on target but SYU definitely was.

For the 11 Faculties and departments participating in SYU '85, it provided a unique opportunity to introduce potential students to their disciplines, which is especially useful to those students who are currently planning their scholastic careers.

Program A's classes were in family studies, geology, law and vertebrate biology. Program B featured English, physics, music, and statistics. Program C contained lectures, research and seminars in University-standard mathematics. Some of the math students were working at the second-year University level, reported J.W. Macki, Chairman of Mathematics, and a member of SYU's steering committee. Eight of the "math whiz kids" said they were planning careers in medicine.

In each of the Programs A and B, a faculty member volunteered to be "academic advisor", and those graduate students from their Faculties to prepare the course material and lectures in both of the two-week sessions. The advisors also assisted with the lesson plans, the coordination of "hands on" materials and approved the course outlines. The 15-member team of graduate students generally reported that SYU was a very challenging summer job, demanding many teaching and organizational skills in the instruction of these bright, enthusiastic young people.

Slightly less than half of the students were from out of town, and many of these experienced life at Lister Hall, with its advantages (camaraderie) and disadvantages (food). They grumbled about the strict "house rules", but somehow, the fun and revelry seemed to spill over into the wee hours of the morning, making those 9 a.m. classes come awfully early. In this way, and many others, SYU was able to offer not just a sample, but a real taste of "University life."

SYU '85 was well-received, according to the student evaluation forms. Comments included "rave notices" and interest was expressed in attending SYU with different courses next year. The steering committee, in addition to Dr.

Wall of Fame Stretching Far Beyond Pavilion

Physical Education and Recreation's Wall of Fame (and other) stock is rising.

At a news conference at the Westin Hotel last week, Gerry Glassford and Bob Steadward informed reporters that 16 individuals from the corporate sector like what they see and have agreed to be vice-chairmen for the first Sports Wall of Fame Dinner next week. Six other local businessmen are working with Dr. Steadward on the organizing committee.

Premier Lougheed will serve as honorary chairman of the gala event which will be held at the Westin beginning at 6:30 p.m. on 19 September.

Six former University of Alberta athletes were selected for the Wall in 1983 and another six will be acknowledged during the evening. Dr. Steadward, Chairman of Athletic Services, will name names and tell the anticipated 500 guests all about the Wall. Joining him, Mr. Lougheed, Myer Horowitz and the vice-chairmen at the head table will be Tom Costello, former New York Giant and a member of the Round Table Club. The latter is known as an inspirational speaker.

Tickets are $125 each and are available through Athletic Services. The 7 p.m. dinner will be followed by a dance.

The Sports Wall of Fame was a University 75th Anniversary project. Its purpose is to recognize and preserve the contributions of outstanding athletes and contributors to University sport.

The current members of the Wall are: Ethel Barnett Cuts and W.A. (Bill) Shandro (1920s), Beverly Richard (1960s), and Kathy Moore, Brian Fryer and Randy Gregg (1970s).

Support for the Wall of Fame enables the University to "continue to attract a steady flow of high calibre student athletes, and to provide them with high quality facilities and coaching necessary to maintain international stauts."

The University's international reputation for excellence was enhanced several notches when it hosted the 1978 Commonwealth Games and Universiade '83. Now, Dean Glassford, Dr. Steadward and their colleagues want to increase the visibility of the Faculty and get the community out in force at Bears and Pandas games. The Wall of Fame Dinner should help set up more special events like last year's Bears vs. NAIT Ookpiks game, and draw attention to the importance of scheduling more matches involving international teams and invitational clinics run by coaches from a variety of nations, including East Germany. That noise you hear is the Faculty knocking on doors. □

Macki, includes: A. Fisher, Music; G. Moss, Physics; Dan Syrotuik, Athletics; and Gerry Wright, Extension. At its wind-up meeting, the committee unanimously concluded that the SYU program should be continued and developed, ideally with the participation of more Faculties.

SYU '85 was budgeted to be self-supporting and employed 15 graduate students, two sessional lecturers and one coordinator. Additional assistance and encouragement was provided by the President's Office, the City School Boards and Alberta Education. More information regarding SYU '86 will be available through either the Faculty of Extension or the Department of Athletics.*□

Canadian Mediterranean Institute's Winter Program

The Canadian Mediterranean Institute (CMI) was formed in the autumn of 1980 to serve as an umbrella organization for three Canadian academic centres abroad: the Canadian Archaeological Institute at Athens, the Canadian Academic Centre in Italy and the Canadian Institute in Egypt.

The aim of the CMI is to sustain a high standard of teaching and research in Canadian universities by encouraging and assisting scholarly and artistic work in Mediterranean countries in such fields as archaeology, architecture, the arts, engineering, history, language and literature, law, philosophy, religion and science. In so doing, the CMI hopes to enhance Canadian awareness of our cultural roots in the Mediterranean region and to strengthen our links with Mediterranean countries.

An Edmonton Chapter of the CMI was formed recently and has planned a winter program which will include a presentation by Richard Smith on ancient Egypt, a preview of the 1986 University of Alberta summer school in Italy by Helena Fracchia and Maurizio Gualtieri, and a talk by Charles Baker on the autopsy of the University's mummy.

Anyone who is interested may attend the meetings, which will be held in the Provincial Museum. Membership of the CMI is open to all who wish to further the aims of the Institute; more information can be had from Edward Wilson, Helena Fracchia or Robert Buck at 432-2338.□

Rock 'n' Roll Returns With a Vengeance

The Edmonton Film Society, purveyor of nostalgia that it is, will positively ooze memories from 16 to 19 September. Eight rock 'n' roll movies, a cornucopia of legendary musicians (What, you don't remember Wink Martindale?) and graduates of the Mount Rushmore Academy of Acting, will be screened in the H.M. Tory Building.

The Society asks moviegoers to shoulder decorum aside and indulge in a genre that prides itself on super-surreal screenplays, amorphous plots and cut-rate production.

The pot starts boiling with "The Girl Can't Help It" and "Let's Rock." On 17 September, the first movie about rock 'n' roll, "Rock Around the Clock," will be accompanied by "Don't Knock the Rock." The rest of the series consists of "Jailhouse Rock" and "Rock, Pretty Baby" (18 September) and "Rock! Rock! Rock!" and "Let the Good Times Roll" (19 September).

Tickets are $5 per night (two films) are available only at the door on the night of the showings.

Each double bill will start at 7:30 p.m.□

INTER-DEPARTMENTAL

CORRESPONDENCE

TO Leslie Stewart

DATE 19 June 1985

FROM Rosalind Sydie

Heard via Dallas that you have some dates for Dale Spender and that topics are on their way. As I shall be away when the latter arrive, in all probability, and I am not sure when Ann returns I would suggest that you do a mailing to the following indicating something on the order that; Dale Spender will be on campus from x to y and available to talk on the following list of topics (list them). Then ask if they would be interested in having Spender address their department and students and, if possible, for them to give you a date. The date might not be possible but if you have some indication of interest that would be great. If Dale Spender includes a vitae with her list of topics you might include some of the highlights in the letter you send to them all. A sort of circular, with individual names at the head, on inter-departmental letterhead should be O.K.

In the following list I have included the departments and in some cases included a c.c. to someone in the department. The latter is to provide a double insurance; someone with an interest, possibly, will be alerted and will hopefully spur departments on into doing something definite.

Family Studies, (cc. Dean D. Badir)
History, (cc. Prof. P. Prestwich)
Anthropology
Education Foundations, (cc. Prof. M. Asheton-Smith)
Educational Psychology
Political Science
Philosophy (cc. Prof. King-Farlow)
English
Romance Languages
Comparative Literature.

If anyone else can come up with other departments, just add them on.
Good luck.

Dear Michael:

With regards to your phone call this morning, the following is Dale Spender's description of her "Reflecting Men" lecture:

Popular lecture to outline the ways women manage men's egos, how and why. Divulging the 'trade secrets' of femininity. Drawing on the title of a forthcoming book with Andre Deutsch which takes its title from Virginia Woolf's statement that for centuries women have served as looking glasses for men reflecting them at twice their normal size!

Secondly, I know that there is a photograph of Dale in the April 1985 issue of Herizons. I can't think of any others off the top of my head.

You asked about a suitable honorarium for Dale's trip to Athabasca U the last time we talked. One hundred and fifty dollars has been suggested as the appropriate amount.

Finally Michael, I have enclosed several copies of the flyer which outlines Dale's public lectures. The smaller seminars are just now being arranged. I will send you a copy of the entire schedule once we have it together (soon!). Don't hesitate to call if you have any further questions.

With regards to my discussion with your assistant, Judy Clarke, yesterday, I understand that you may be interested in having Dale Spender give a talk at the hospital during her stay in Edmonton.

Ms. Clarke told me that your interest in Dale as a speaker stems from your previous successful session on Women and Safety. I am not sure that the type of topics which Dale has indicated that she is willing to address would be as suitable to your audience, since many of them focus on literature and/or education. However, I include a list of the topics below and will leave that decision to you.

Dale's schedule is filling up quickly so please let me know as soon as possible if you are interested. In addition to the topic, please also indicate the date and time that you would prefer. Ms. Spender will be at the University from September 19 to October 3.

Dallas Cullen, Chair,
Advisory Committee on Women's Studies

We wish to provide a report on the visit by Dr. Dale Spender, Distinguished Guest Lecturer in Women's Studies.

Dr. Spender arrived on September 19 and left on October 3. During this time she gave three public lectures here and one at Athabasca University. She also gave departmental seminars for Sociology, Political Science, English, Romance Languages, Family Studies, Canadian Studies and Educational Foundations.

Dr. Spender is a stimulating (some would say controversial) speaker and attendance at her talks was high. Her public lectures on September 23, September 26 and October 1 drew 100, 150 and 200 people respectively.
With one exception, each of her departmental seminars was attended by between 40 and 60 people. In addition, she was interviewed by a number of publications, including the Edmonton Journal, the Gateway and the Newsmagazine for Alberta Women, and at least one (if not all) of her public lectures will be heard on CKUA's Speaker of the Week radio series.

Dr. Spender's visit gave visibility to Women's Studies at this University, and was an excellent start to the forthcoming series of speakers which the Advisory Committee on Women's Studies is sponsoring in association with the Faculty of Arts Women's Studies Speaker's Committee. We appreciate the funds that were provided to us for her visit.

University Awarded Top Place in National Energy Conservation Competition

The University of Alberta Physical Plant entry placed first out of 37 submissions in an energy conservation competition sponsored by the Post-Secondary Education Task Force on Energy Management (PETFEM). PETFEM's competition, held under the auspices of the Canadian Association of University Business Offices (CAUBO), drew the financial support of Energy, Mines and Resources, Canada.

The winning submission by the Energy Management Division detailed the conversion of the ventilation system in the Home Economics Centre to variable air volume from the original dual duct configuration. Energy consumption was reduced by 40 percent and the utility bill was lowered by $20,300 in the first year.

Kevin Moodie, Superintendent of Plant Operations, will present the award-winning project on 22 October in Halifax at the national conference on energy management titled "Back to Basics." □

National Universities Week Getting Up to Speed

Every week that slips by brings Canada's 65 universities closer to National Universities Week.

From 19 to 27 October, the various institutions are going to emphasize show and tell. "Show" refers to exhibitions, tours, demonstrations, etc. Participants in the "tell" part include university presidents. More than two dozen speaking engagements have been confirmed. Here are some examples. Douglas Wright, President of the University of Waterloo, will deliver the Robert M. Hardy Anniversary Lecture in Engineering at our University. Myer Horowitz will address Edmonton's Southside Rotary; University of Calgary President Norman Wagner will speak at the University of Saskatchewan.

Other university presidents who are participating in the NUW Speakers Bureau include David Johnson, McGill; Robert Rosehart, Lakehead; E. Margaret Fulton, Mount Saint Vincent; Roland Doré, Ecole Polytechnique; Robin Farquhar, Winnipeg; and William Saywell, Simon Fraser.

(The Bureau has been organized by Al Squibb, Director of Public Affairs. President Horowitz and Dr. Doré are co-chairmen of National Universities Week.)

These and other presidents and their peers have expressed a willingness to talk about accessibility to universities, social and political factors affecting universities, the role of both general and professional education in universities, research and university/industry interface and a number of other topical topics.

Speakers will talk to a variety of influential community audiences across the country.

At this University, Gerry Moss, Associate Dean of Science (External Relations), is Chairman of the Coordinating Committee. Dr. Moss is firming up some 20 events in a variety of disciplines (a listing will appear in next week's Folio) and he is most anxious to hear from those who are holding, or are thinking of holding, an event which might come under the National Universities Week umbrella. His telephone number is 432-3169. □

Any day now Ring House Gallery will be tapping the University/Community Special Projects Fund in order to buy a grazing permit for the "buffalo" on the front lawn. The exhibition Buffalo: "these Beast on ye Barren ground" has been extended to 24 October. Review in next week's Folio. (Buffalo Pound, 8 February 1820. Lieut. George Back, line engraving 1823. # Technology and Biology Meet in New Graduate Course

A new course with some novel and unusual aspects will be offered in Chemical Engineering for the first time next term.

Aimed at graduate students in chemical engineering and in the biological sciences, the course, "Engineering Aspects of Biotechnology," is intended to give the engineers an understanding of biological systems, and show them how to apply their knowledge to an industrial biological process. Biologists will be introduced to first principles—the fundamentals of chemistry, mathematics and physics—and will learn to apply these principles to understand the "why" of biological processes.

Engineers and biologists usually take very different approaches to a problem, says Murray Gray, Chemical Engineering, who, with Marc LeMaguer, Food Science, and Don Gerson, Alberta Research Council, will teach the course.

Engineers calculate from first principles and are not concerned with biological systems.

Biologists, on the other hand, take a descriptive approach and don't usually apply mathematical tools to simulate the action or correlate what is happening.

"But," says Dr. Gray, "if you don't use scientific method, you have to use trial and error. And this can be expensive when you are trying to take an idea from the lab to the point where it can become commercial. Biologists have a problem with scale-up, and engineering analysis can help."

Dr. Gray gives much credit for initiating the course to Don Westlake, Microbiology, who is interested in taking his own research work in antibiotics from a lab scale to industrial production.

It is hoped that further cooperative work of this kind will be initiated between other specialties. □

Much in Store for Returning Alumni

Having bumped up the number of activities for Homecoming '85, Alumni Affairs is expecting record numbers of alumni to stroll the campus 4, 5 and 6 October.

The annual Homecoming begins Friday at 7 p.m. in the Stollery Centre with registration, refreshments and the renewing of friendships. Saturday's events begin in the Heritage Lounge, Athabasca Hall, with the consumption of the famous Tuck Shop cinnamon buns and java. Other activities on the slate include tours of campus and the Mackenzie Health Sciences

Centre, and the annual autumn classic, the Turkey Trot, a four or eight km course (the runner's choice) which gives alumni a chance to win a Thanksgiving turkey. L'Express, the speciality restaurant in SUB, will open for grads at noon. The Homecoming Dinner and Dance will get under way at 6:30 p.m. at the Westin Hotel.

Sunday is devoted to special class functions, including a brunch for Diamond and Gold grads (1925 and 1935, respectively) hosted by President and Mrs. Horowitz.

Homecoming '85 will introduce the awarding of special prizes to lucky ticket holders. The prizes are: a return flight for two to San Francisco, courtesy of Air Canada; weekend accommodation for two at the Westin Hotel, Edmonton; an official University of Alberta chime clock.

All alumni are invited to attend Homecoming, the key telephone number for which is 432-3224 (Alumni Affairs). □

Visual Identity Committee Turns Attention to Vehicle Pool

The green University vehicles that have become so familiar to us over the years are gradually being phased out and the new units in Vehicle Pool will convert to the standards set by the Visual Identity System.

The new vehicles are yellow with a beige University crest, and will be phased in over the next 10 years. Visual Identity designer Walter Jungkind told Folio that the new color was chosen for visibility, but it was not to be too obtrusive. The modified crest (decal) is beige, so as not to provide too much contrast. Professor Jungkind also mentioned that there is a correlation between visibility and accidents, and that yellow is more visible than dark green. "We tried to make it look practical and classical," he said.

Vehicle Pool Assistant Manager Ed Dux assured Folio that the green vehicles will not be painted yellow unless a paint job is necessary and that old trucks will only be replaced on the normal replacement plan. Because some units do not come from the factory in that color, tenders are sent out for the paint job. The color was chosen by members of the Visual Identity Committee, and approved by the President. At present, 25 of the approximately 250 Vehicle Pool vehicles adhere to the Visual Identity System.

Meanwhile, Phase I of the Visual Identity System is drawing to a close, with approximately 96 per cent of the University stationery having been standardized. Phase II, which involves the standardization of publications, is well under way. □

Frederick Agard: EFF Distinguished Visitor

As part of the University's Distinguished Visitor program, Frederick B. Agard of Cornell University's Department of Modern Languages and Linguistics will deliver a series of six lectures on the general topic "What is a Language, and What is a Dialect?"

Professor Emeritus Agard will visit from 30 September to 11 October.

A noted historical linguist and Romance dialectologist, Dr. Agard will present for discussion his theory of language delimitation and differentiation. The theory, which entails the identification of the specific structural criteria involved in determining whether two given speech systems may be said to be dialects of the same language or two separate languages, will be illustrated on two levels. During the first three lectures exemplification will be taken from modern English, French and Spanish as well as from dialectal variations of those languages, for example, Scottish, Quebecois and Aragonese. In the second three lectures the same criteria will be applied to the question of language change over time with reference to the evolution of Latin into the various Romance languages and especially into French and Spanish.

Sponsored by the Department of Romance Languages, the lectures will be given on 30 September, and 2, 4, 7, 9 and 11 October from 4 to 6 p.m. in the Senate Chamber, Arts Building. □

Your Helping Hand

You have seen it often: the symbol with the hand outstretched to help, the rainbow of hope arched over it, and you—or the person you help—at the centre.

It is the logo of United Way—which for 45 years has been providing human service to the hungry, the lonely and the desperate in your community.

Launched with the joint effort and support of the labour and business communities, United Way now depends on a tradition of community-wide support to enable it to go on helping people to help people.

More than one person in three in and around Edmonton relies in some way on help from one of the 100 or more health and human care programs offered by United Way member agencies. Every day, there is someone who needs support to carry on. It may be an unemployed father who can't feed his young family; or a teenager in despair who has no place to go; a new widow who can't face life alone; a desperately sick person needing blood to live; a child who has been abused;...the need is endless.

Once a year only, United Way conducts a campaign to raise the funds it needs to support the programs.

It's that time of year now.

The goal is $5.7 million, and fund raisers are hoping that everyone will play their part.

United Way
of Edmonton and Area

United Way on Campus

The goal for the 1985 University of Alberta United Way campaign is $180,000. The money raised will provide help to the more than 40 agencies of the United Way of Edmonton and area.

Organizations that become agencies of the United Way agree not to campaign outside of the United Way. The member agencies are very dependent upon the success of the campaign. Included among these agencies are the Canadian

Red Cross Society, Girl Guides of Canada, Boy Scouts of Canada, and St. John Ambulance.

Donations to the United Way can be directed to a specific agency if a contributor so desires. If you wish to direct your contribution to a specific agency, just attach a note to your contribution form.

Please consider donating to the United Way and remember "Good things can happen." □

Meet 'Marvin': Filmprocessor Extraordinaire

Michael Bell move over. Photo Services has just announced that they will be closed Saturday and Sunday to prepare for the hordes of customers who will gather on Monday to view "Marvin", their new wonder machine.

"Marvin" is actually their brand new film processor, worth approximately $30,000, and capable of processing a roll of Ektachrome E-6 slide film in 37 minutes flat. With his help, one photo technician can process up to 100 rolls of film per day. (According to photo technician Louise Asselstine, the old machine could produce a maximum of 30 rolls a day—and that was with one technician, a tool kit and a lot of patience.) "Marvin" is a professional piece of equipment designed for large photo labs. A product of Kreonite Inc. of Wichita, Kansas, he has automatic temperature, time and chemical replenishment rates, and once fed the film, does not require constant attention. But wait, there's more. Photo Services has also acquired a new computerized mounter that can print the name and phone number of the department on the slide mount.

Customers can purchase the Ektachrome film at Photo Services. For convenience, the film is sold with pre-paid mailers that can be dropped into campus mail, or the mailer can be purchased separately. Please note that the film is sold at University bulk prices with federal tax exempt, but this is only available on a departmental basis. □

Voilà! The start of a beautiful friendship for Louise and "Marvin."

Faculty of Nursing Publishes Research Inventory

A 40-page publication was issued recently by the Faculty of Nursing, describing research and scholarly activities in the Faculty from 1980 to 1984, and listing some 40 ongoing and proposed projects in nursing research.

This is a remarkable increase over the past few years, says Dean Janetta MacPhail. Five years ago, only five projects were under way, and only two of these were funded. In 1984, however, the Faculty held research project grants totalling $140,000, most of which were obtained on a competitive basis. Projects include descriptive, experimental and historical approaches to the study of nursing practice, nursing education and nursing administration. All are perceived as contributing ultimately to the advancement of nursing knowledge and practice—in nursing research the focus is on the patient, in contrast to medical research where the focus is on the disease.

There is, however, still a lot of catching up to be done in the area of funding, nurse researchers feel.

More than $6 billion are spent yearly in Canada on nursing services. If one percent of that amount were spent on nursing research, that would be some $60 million annually. Yet, according to Shirley Stinson, it is estimated that the all-time high spent on nursing research in any one year was $1.7 million in 1983. The amount spent on medical qua medical research in that same year was more than $135 million.

Alberta is the only province or state government in the world to earmark funding for nursing research: in 1982, the Alberta Foundation for Nursing Research (AFNR) was established and $1 million over five years was committed to nursing research. The AFNR research grant award program has created a real impetus in this field. Another key element in its development and expansion, say the authors of the publication, has been the financial and moral support received from the Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research ($22,700 in 1984-85, along with continued encouragement to improve and expand nursing research).

Thus, while funding continues to be a major barrier to the development of nursing research, particularly in terms of the development of graduate level programs, progress within the Faculty of Nursing in the last four years has been substantial. □

Physical Education Centre Renamed in Honor of Former Dean

The Physical Education and Recreation Centre has been renamed the "Van Vliet Centre" in honor of former Physical Education Dean Maurice (Maury) L. Van Vliet.

Dr. Van Vliet joined the University in 1945 as head of the then physical education program. Under his direction, the program grew to become a department, then a school, and finally, a Faculty. His concern for the educational value of intercollegiate athletic programs and the broadly-based intramural programs at the University was well-known, and his unique blending of the two created a Faculty that became a model for the nation.

Dr. Van Vliet was Director of the Physical Education Department at the University of British Columbia prior to his appointment to our University. In 1974, he was seconded from the University to serve as President of the 1978 Commonwealth Games Foundation. He retired from the University in 1978. □

New Scholarships in Mathematics

Henry and Muriel Rieger and the family of Thomas Frederick Rieger have established a scholarship fund in memory of Thomas Rieger. The fund will provide two scholarships of up to $1,000 each on an annual basis to students entering the third or fourth year of a BSc program in Mathematics. The first awards will be made this spring.

Tom Rieger struggled through normal school and university during the depression, and went on to become one of Alberta's most prominent educators. He served as President of the ATA in 1963, and was named "Educator of the Year" in 1973 by the University of Alberta Chapter of Phi Delta Kappa.

Jack Macki, Chairman of Mathematics, commented that "Tom Rieger's struggle to get a university education and his commitment to education in this province are stories worth transmitting to future generations." The Mathematics Department is preparing a biographical sketch of Tom Rieger's life to accompany the award. □

First Wall of Fame Dinner Exceeds Expectations

More than 400 people jammed the ballroom of the Westin Hotel last Thursday to honor six inductees into the University's Sports Wall of Fame and to show their support of and commitment to athletic excellence on campus.

The Department of Athletics hosted the dinner and its Chairman, Robert Steadward, was "overwhelmed" with the response. "We had hoped to attract 275 people but we were pleasantly surprised to find out that there was more support and interest in the community than we had expected." Dr. Steadward said the department could have sold even more tickets but the final arrangements had already been confirmed.

The highlight of the evening was the introduction of the six inductees, all of whom are "builders and former athletes of the University of Alberta." Patricia Austin was inducted posthumously. According to biographical notes in the dinner program, "perhaps her most enduring contribution was in the field of adapted physical education where she provided leadership in the Special Olympics movement as well as in research into play programs for mentally handicapped children." A member of the Physical Education and Recreation Faculty, Dr. Austin was recognized nationally with the prestigious R. Tait McKenzie Honor Award and achievement awards from the Provinces of Alberta and Ontario.

A name synonymous with athletics is Maury Van Vliet. His induction was a tribute "paid not simply to a builder but to the builder of the Faculty of Physical Education and Recreation." Under his leadership, a minor University program, which had the mandate to provide intercollegiate and recreational opportunities to students, was expanded to become a full department with a degree curriculum, then a school, and finally the first Faculty of Physical Education in the Commonwealth. Dr. Van Vliet was President of the 1978 Commonwealth Games and through his leadership the "Friendly Games" brought world-wide recognition to our University, City and Province.

The international stature of the Spruce Meadows equestrian facility in Calgary owes much to the efforts of alumna Margaret Southern. Spruce Meadows Farms, which opened 10 years ago, is recognized throughout the world as one of the finest facilities of its kind. About 120 horses are stabled there and the indoor riding arena is booked year round. The outdoor show jumping area is regarded as the best in North America.

Through her dedication and effort, dynamic progress for Alberta and Canada on the world equestrian scene has been made. Her general business acumen extends beyond Spruce Meadows as witness the directorships held on a number of Canadian corporations, including Shell Canada Ltd., Woodward's Stores Ltd., and Royal Trustco Ltd.

Terry Danyluk, one of the youngest inductees to the Wall of Fame, enjoys a distinguished athletic career which began in the Edmonton public school system and continued on campus where he was a member of the Golden Bear Volleyball team. His athletic prowess has resulted in the receipt of numerous Most Valuable Player awards, locally and nationally, and he has represented Canada as a member of the Senior

Listing of NUW Events Not Available

Some details of various events scheduled to take place on campus during National Universities Week (19 to 27 October) remain to be worked out. Therefore, a listing of these events, which was to have appeared in this issue of Folio, has been placed on hold. □

Men's National Volleyball Team. During his international career, he has competed in several World Championships and three Universiades.

Former Winnipeg Blue Bomber great and Golden Bear Football star, Ken Nielson, had his plaque placed on the Wall of Fame. After a brilliant five-year career with the Bears, in which the team amassed a record 23 wins, 1 loss and 2 ties, Dr. Nielson (he is a dentist in Winnipeg) was awarded the Wilson Trophy as the top male athlete in 1965. The talents he honed at the University were duly recognized in the CFL where he was named to the All-Star and All-Pro teams a number of times and chosen the Schenley Canadian Player of the Year in 1969.

World champion trapshooter Susan Natrass completes the list of 1985 inductees. Ms. Natrass is familiar with such honors having also been inducted into the Alberta

Sports Hall of Fame, the Alberta Provincial Trapshooting Association's Hall of Fame, and the Canadian Sports Hall of Fame. She received the 1982 Premier's Award and has been the recipient of the provincial award for outstanding contributions to sport on 11 occasions.

Ms. Natrass has won numerous other awards with 1981 being a particularly plentiful year, her collection including the Lou Marsh Trophy as Canadian Athlete of the Year, the Female Athlete of the Year, and the Order of Canada.

She has studied at this University for a number of years and is in the process of completing her doctoral degree.

The six individuals join Bill Shandro, Ethel Cuts, Beverly Richard, Kathy Moore, Brian Fryer and Randy Gregg who were named to the Wall of Fame in its inaugural year, 1983. □

Fund For Support of International Development Activities

The Fund for Support of International Development Activities operates through allocations from the University of Alberta Endowment Fund for the Future. Its aim is to assist the University of Alberta community with supplementary funding for projects related to development in Third World countries. The Fund should not be viewed as a source of major operating grants for research projects. Support from the Fund is available on a University-wide basis. Proposals may be submitted by individual staff members, departments, or Faculties, but proposals submitted by individuals must be endorsed by the respective Department Chairman and Faculty Dean. If the research involved concerns human research, the project must be reviewed and approved by an appropriate Ethics Review Committee in accordance with the Ethics in Human Research Guidelines established at the University of Alberta in 1985.

Recipients of funding must submit brief progress reports by the end of the fiscal year for projects which extend beyond 31 March, as well as a final report at the completion of a project.

Grants

Grants may be made in support of:

- a) An individual in aid of preparing a formal project proposal for submission to a funding agency. This may include travel, communication, and other relevant and reasonable expenses.
- b) A department or Faculty to cover minimal replacement costs up to a maximum of four months for a faculty member participating in an international development project off campus. In most cases, replacement costs will cover teaching, but for staff whose primary responsibilities are of a counselling or administrative nature, cost of replacement staff will also be considered.

c) An individual in aid of travel and research with clear development implications.

During the fiscal period 1 April 1984 to 31 March 1985, the Advisory Committee for the Fund for Support of International Development Activities approved 15 project applications. Funds were approved for development assistance in the following areas: Africa (9.4 percent), Asia (46.6 percent), Egypt (6.4 percent), Mexico (2.7 percent), Latin America (23.7 percent), West Indies (11.2 percent).

Advisory Committee

The Fund is administered by the Office of the Vice-President (Academic) upon the advice of an Advisory Committee named by the Vice-President (Academic).

The Committee normally meets three times annually, following the application deadlines of 15 January, 15 April and 15 October. Unless unique circumstances warrant special consideration, these deadlines are strictly enforced.

Enquiries, requests for application forms, and completed proposals should be directed to the Committee Secretary, Eva Cherniavsky, 3-13 University Hall. Applications must be typed; handwritten requests will not be considered by the Committee. □

University/Community Special Projects Fund

The University/Community Special Projects Fund, established in 1980, operates through allocations from the University of Alberta Endowment Fund for the Future. During the fiscal year 1984-85, 19 applicants who submitted project proposals received assistance from the Fund. Support was given to applicants who came from all areas of the University and the community-at-large, but the majority of assistance went to projects which originated in the Faculties. The distribution was as follows:

Faculties	50.5 percent
University Archives	19.6 percent
Community-at-Large	15.8 percent
Women's Resources Centre (University of Alberta)	8.8 percent
Central Administration	2.9 percent
University Collections	2.4 percent

The Fund provides grants in aid to projects of special significance to this region of Canada or to this University. Projects should be either of a capital nature or limited to a two-year operating period. Preference is given to projects and activities which cannot, in practice, be funded by other means.

Project proposals must be accompanied by a supporting statement by the head of the department/Faculty or another expert related to the project area. While primary uses are intended for such projects as the purchase of works of art or items of special significance to this region of Canada, the conservation of important collections of the University, and the underwriting of special exhibitions or other projects to increase public awareness of University collections, grants will not be restricted to such projects. Applications are encouraged from as wide a cross section of applicants as possible both from within and outside the University community. All projects will receive careful attention by the Advisory Committee.

Deadlines for submissions of project applications are: 15 January, 15 April and 15 October. The Committee adheres to these deadlines strictly.

Grant recipients are expected to submit brief progress reports at the end of each fiscal year for projects which extend beyond 31 March, as well as a final report at the completion of the project.

Enquiries, requests for application forms, and completed proposals should be directed to the Committee Secretary, Eva Cherniavsky, 3-13 University Hall. □

University Professorships

The Selection Committee for University Professors will be considering nominees for University Professorships later in the fall. This title honors professors whose academic, professional and community contributions have been exceptionally meritorious.

Nominations should be submitted to the Vice-President (Academic) no later than 30 October 1985, but before making any nomination persons are asked to study the criteria, copies of which may be obtained from Pamela Plaskitt, 2-5 University Hall (432-4715).

Buffalo's Place in History Illuminated at Ring House Exhibition

"The wild and wooly West." Surely the buffalo put the "wooly" in the description. "In varying forms," reads a panel in Ring House Gallery's well-ordered exhibition "Buffalo 'these Beast on ye Barren ground,'" "the bison has existed in North America for at least 200,000 years." His last hurrah occurred in the latter half of the 19th century and was both spectacular and sad. The events as well as others of more recent vintage were detailed by painters, lithographers, cartographers and photographers, writers and just plain curiosity seekers. Ring House started planning for the exhibition a year ago and the result is a rich account of the time of the buffalo.

As of last week, about 2,500 people had viewed the exhibition (an average of 600 a month). The comments in the guest book include an occasional "too much text" or "poor lighting" but they are buried under the "very interesting", "wow", "awesome" and "an amazing collection of part of our wildlife heritage" remarks.

One reason for the good words has to be the Frederick Verner painting on the second floor. The artist (1836-1928) probably never saw a bison outside of a zoo or wild west show, we are informed. But how he could picture the beasts on the move! His 1882 oil, "The Buffalo Stampede", shows a herd running hell for leather to escape a prairie fire. The leaders look as if they're about to crash off the canvas and seek sanctuary in Emily Murphy Park.

One wall is taken up by a stuffed buffalo and there is also a whole buffalo hide, including head and tail, and buffalo skulls and horns. Display cases hold such items as a buffalo coat, Indian weaponry (included in a grouping of arrowheads, scraping tools, drills and other artifacts are two darts, estimated as being between 5,000 to 7,000 years old and 2,000 years old, respectively) and one of William Rowan's field notebooks.

The exhibition is big but not too big. It's also arranged for self-guiding. In other words, visitors can get the whole picture or select a portion of it and concentrate on that. One member of the Gallery's staff, noticing that people are very much at ease, attributes their manner to the accessibility of "Buffalo." Certainly there is no need to interpret anything or to try to mine hidden meanings.

While materials from collections in other provinces and various institutions in the United States figure prominently in the exhibition, "Buffalo" would be inconsequential were it not for the items drawn from Special Collections, the Department of Zoology Museum, the University Map Collection, University Archives and the O.C. Edwards Collection of Indian Artifacts. What further distinguishes the exhibition are the NFB films, "The Great Buffalo Saga" and "Paul Kane Goes West." Kane spent 3 1/2 years travelling 9,000 miles through North America, painting and sketching Indians and their lives and buffalo and their lives. His works and those of the other major artists of the period amplify the words of Francis Parkman, who, working on a history of LaSalle in 1846, reflected that the French explorer, too, must have observed a wondrous spectacle "...the memory of which can quicken the pulse and stir the blood after the lapse of years: far and near, the prairie was alive with buffalo; now like black specks dotting the distant swells; now trampling by in ponderous columns or filing in long lines, morning, noon, and night, to drink at the river—wading, plunging, and snorting in the water—climbing the muddy shores and staring with wild eyes at the passing canoes."

The preceding account appears in the "meticulously researched book" Son of the Morning Star, in which author Evan S. Connell states that in the 1870s eight million buffalo—give or take a million or so—were shot for their hides during a period of three years.

The hunters, the clothing manufacturers and the restaurateurs came into money; the artists and historians did their best to record the life and death of the great herds. The George Catlins, Karl Bodmers, Paul Kanes and Frederick Verners got it right. Their paintings and sketches and the photographs, maps and artifacts of "Buffalo: 'these Beast on ye Barren ground'" amply serve Ring House's purpose of showing the importance of the bison to the history of Western Canada.

Toward the close of the 1870s, a combination of prairie fires, the tightening of the circle of hide hunters and the American army trying to starve Sitting Bull into surrender (the Sioux chief and many of the warriors who defeated Custer at the Little Bighorn were hiding out at Cypress Hills) signaled the disappearance of free-roaming buffalo from the Canadian Plains.

The buffalo could no longer serve as the be-all and end-all to the Plains Indian. In 1837, the young artist Alfred Miller observed the dismantling of a bison. "To say nothing of the exquisite 'hump rib' and other choice bits, the hide he converts into an extempore boat to float his plunder, or a robe to protect him in winter, to cover his lodge or make him a bed; the horns, cleansed, serve him for drinking cups or receptacles for powder; the scalp, with its long bushy hair and horns attached, is indispensable when he joins the buffalo dance; with the sinews he covers his elk-horn bow, to give it strength and elasticity; he also manufactures from it the strongest thread possible for sewing his war dresses; and, lastly, he tips the arrows with the bones, fashions them into fishing hooks, etc." He could have gone further with this classic example of waste not want not. The buffalo's tail made a highly serviceable fly whisk, his shoulder blades were made into axes and hoes, his ribs became sledge runners, his boiled hooves meant glue, his blood red paint, and his dung fuel. Even his long black beard was used to decorate clothes. Gone, all gone.

The early days of "Buffalo" meshed with the Fourth International Theriological Congress which attracted more than 1,000 mammalogists to campus. Another reason for the exhibition is that 1985 marks the centennial of the Canadian national parks system, "a system which has significantly contributed to bison conservation and preservation."

The exhibition had been scheduled to close in early October but its popularity and the fact that many school and University students have not had a chance to see it because of the rigors of registration has resulted in an extension to 24 October. "Buffalo" is open from noon to 5 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday; noon to 8 p.m. Thursday; and 2 to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Admission is free. For tours, call 432-5834.

If you wish to obtain a memento, the choices are: poster, catalogue ($2 each) and ceramic buffalo pin ($7). □

Selection Committees for Deans

Advisory Selection Committees are continuing their searches for Deans of the Faculties of Home Economics, Law, Pharmacy and Pharmaceutical Sciences, Physical Education and Recreation, and Science. Appointments will take effect 1 July 1986 or as soon as candidates approved by the Board of Governors are available. Incumbent Deans Bachynsky and Glassford have confirmed their candidacies for reappointment.

Suggestions of possible candidates and assessments of the leadership needs of these Faculties are invited. Nominations or applications, accompanied in the latter case by a detailed résumé of qualifications and experience and the names of three referees, should be submitted to Dr. J. Peter Meekison, Vice-President (Academic), 3-5 University Hall, by 1 November 1985 for Deans of Home Economics, Law, Pharmacy, and Physical Education, and by 15 October 1985 for Dean of Science.

'The Four Gospels' According to John Dreyfus

John Dreyfus, a leading authority on typography, will present a lecture on the rare book The Four Gospels, published by the renowned Golden Cockerel Press in 1931. The type, illustrations and binding of this book were especially designed by the English artist and wood engraver Eric Gill.

Dreyfus's lecture, under the aegis of the Department of Art and Design, will be presented on Tuesday, 8 October, at 7:30 p.m. in 2-20 (Art History) Fine Arts Building. It will cover the planning of the book by Eric Gill and his friend Robert Gibbins: the making of the type, designed by Gill for the Cockerel Press—including a fully illustrated account of how he produced the drawings for the type—and showing all production steps from page makeup to the special binding and completion of the book.

John Dreyfus was Typographic Advisor to the Cambridge University Printer and to the Monotype Corporation in London from 1955 to 1982. He is a Fellow of the Royal Society of Arts and of the Institute of Printing, and Honorary President of the Association Typographique Internationale (ATypI).

He was actively involved in the major, seminal exhibition "Printing and the Mind of Man" (London, 1963), designing the comprehensive catalogue of the exhibition as well as serving on the editorial and selection committees.

Author of numerous books and articles on typography, printing and related subjects, John Dreyfus is also the designer of a number of books, mainly for Cambridge University Press (the Library Edition of the New English Bible), and of several major bibliographical works and catalogues (including the Rothchild Library). As Typographic Advisor to the Monotype Corporation Ltd., he was involved in the production of the "Univers" typeface series by Adrian Frutiger (in collaboration with Deberny Peignot of Paris); the "Dante" typeface by Giovanni Mardersteig; "Sabon" by Jan Tschichold and "Octavian" by Will Carter and David Kindersly, and many other typeface designs.

John Dreyfus has lectured widely in Europe and the United States; he has been initiator and organiser of international congresses in Prague (1969), London (1971), Copenhagen (1973) and at Stanford University (1983).

For his substantial contribution to the practice of, understanding and appreciation of the "black arts", and in addition to being a member of prestigious national and international organizations, John Dreyfus is the recipient of the Sir Thomas More Award given by the University of San Francisco (1978), and the laureate award presented annually by the American Printing History Association to recognize lifetime achievement in the printing and publishing arts. □

Skating School Added to Staff Fitness Program

The 29th edition of the Staff Fitness and Lifestyle Program is about to get rolling. The program, directed by Art Burgess, was awarded a certificate of excellence last May by the Hon. Otto Jelinek, Minister of State for Fitness and Amateur Sport. Not resting on its laurels, the Fall '85 edition has a wide array of physical activity opportunities both for fitness and for recreation.

A notable addition to the program is an ice skating school intended for adults who would like to learn to skate recreationally. The Staff Fitness and Lifestyle Office of Campus Recreation is assembling a team of highly skilled skating instructors who are experienced at teaching adults. Dr. Burgess says the school is based on the premise that adults don't bounce well. Safety is the guideline; all participants must be reasonably fit. The school will not accept people who are 20 percent over their ideal weight, since overweight people fall easily.

Three levels of instruction will be offered: "Scared Stiff" for those who have only encountered ice in a drink; "Beginners," defined as those who should be able to stand up on skates; and "Skaters," that is, those who are already mobile, but who would like to increase their repertoire of skills. All participants must have their own skates. The course, one of 40 in the current program, will start on Wednesday, 2 October, at noon in the Ice Arena.

The Staff Fitness Program itself commences on 30 September. It will include courses in the early morning, at lunch hour and in the immediate post-work period. The activities menu includes "Aerobic Dance," "Aquacises," "Keep Fit," "Yoga," "T'ai Chi," "Relaxation," "Smoking Cessation" and "Weight Control." Notable too is the inclusion of a number of courses especially designed for people who have never exercised but who would like to make a safe, gentle start. "Introduction to Exercise" is directed at these people. "50 and Getting Better" is for older campus people who may feel that the fitness movement has rushed past them. The "Campus Recreation Bulletin" has been delivered to all staff. It includes a special section which gives information about this program plus a wealth of information about other recreational activities. If you have not received your copy, call 432-5607. Registration for the Staff Fitness and Lifestyle Program is on-going. People wishing to take part are advised to act quickly since many courses are reaching capacity. □

'Life After Hockey' or 'Dear Number 99': the Ramblings of a Hockey Fan

Wednesday, 18 September, was the beginning of my new life. After years of waiting, hoping, and putting up with family back home asking about him, the dream finally became a reality. I met Wayne Gretzky.

The momentous event took place at SUB Theatre, where the Fringe production "Life After Hockey" was being performed. (I suppose Glen Sather thought the play, which presents Canadian hockey at its best, would give the boys a little pre-season excitement.) And so, there we sat, Wayne and the rest of the Oilers in the balcony and me down below, laughing, groaning, and empathizing as professional actor Kenneth Brown recounted the details of a life that's been blessed—and plagued—by hockey.

He began at the end ("It wasn't Mike Bossy that scored that winning Canada Cup goal—it was me.") and worked his way back. As a tyke, he was addicted to hockey. Using copies of Chatelaine as shin pads with his grandmother's Mason jar rings to hold them in place, "Rink Rat Brown" set out for the neighborhood rink to practise and chase the girls. Although he eventually gave up hockey, he never could find it in himself to give up girls...that is, until he met Guy Lafleur. One winter night on a Mon-treil rink with Guy changed his life. That one rollicking encounter led him to return to hockey, and, he claims, the Canada Cup.

Highlights of the play, which Brown wrote for himself, included a perfect imitation of Coach Sather chewing gum, and the periodic interjection of a soft spotlight and haunting music, as Brown's hollow voice pleaded with the Great Player in the sky for help in his founding hockey career: "Dear Number 99, I really need some help with my backhand...Signed, No Backhand." To which "Number 99" replied: "Dear No Backhand...You've got to practise, Practise, PRACTISE." (After seeing "Life After Hockey," Gretzky consented to having his voice recorded for use in all future performances of the play.)

At a reception afterwards, this reporter took advantage of an Oiler autograph session and interviewed Brown as he hobnobbed with the players. I discovered that although Mr. Brown has never actually met Guy Lafleur, he did play hockey while growing up in Edmonton, and has wanted to do a hockey show for quite some time. His efforts have paid off; he presented the play at the Fringe a dozen times, and has future bookings in Red Deer, Saskatchewan, and tentatively, at Expo '86.

A former University of Alberta drama teacher, Mr. Brown teaches at Grant MacEwan College, and is working on a Master's in Drama in his spare time.

This presentation of "Life After Hockey" was sponsored by the Department of Physical Education and Sport Studies as part of its Open Seminar Program which is designed to stimulate discussion on a number of topics in Sport and Physical Education. The packed house included physical education and fine arts students. □

DALE SPENDER

Dale Spender is an internationally renowned feminist author. She is at the leading edge in terms of critical analyses of the ways in which women's ideas have been shaped, distorted and sometimes erased as a consequence of their less powerful position in the social construction of knowledge and meaning. Among Dr. Spender's books are Man Made Language (1980), Women of Ideas and What Men Have Done to Them - from Aphra Behn to Adrienne Rich (1982), and There's Always Been A Women's Movement This Century (1983).

Through the efforts of the Advisory Committee on Women's Studies, Dale Spender will be a Distinguished Guest Lecturer at the University of Alberta from September 19 to October 3, 1985. The following is a schedule of Dr. Spender's public appearances. Admission to all events is free.

Saturday September 21: Book signing at Common Woman Books, 8210 104 Street, Edmonton, 2:00 - 4:00 pm.

*Monday September 23: Public lecture; *Mothers of the Novel:
106 Good Women Novelists Before Jane Austen.*

Tuesday September 24: Public seminar; Reflecting Men,
Athabasca University, Athabasca, 2:00 - 3:30 pm.

*Thursday September 26: Public lecture; The Silence of Women.

*Tuesday October 1: Public lecture; Reflecting Men.

*Lectures will be held at Humanities, Lecture Theatre One, University of Alberta, 7:30 - 9:30.

The following are requests for interviews with you that I have received so far. I have told people that it would be up to you to decide which interviews you wanted to do once you arrived. The exception is The Newsmagazine which I had written you about and which you "okayed" in writing. I can either give all of these people your phone number (or you theirs) so you can talk to them directly, or I can arrange things for you. Just let me know.

✓ The Newsmagazine for Alberta Women (aka the Newsmagazine)

The Newsmagazine is brand new as of this summer and is Alberta's only feminist periodical.

Contact: Elizabeth Messiah 427-6674 (W)
481-5973 (H)

Left message Has Dale's #

✓ Mairi MacLean

Mairi has been active in the media profession for a long time and now belongs to a women's media group in Edmonton. She is also currently in the process of finishing up a film production on the Edmonton Grads, which was quite a famous women's basketball team from Edmonton during the 1930's and '40's (I think the 30's and 40's). Mairi is really a "neat" person and I think you'd enjoy talking to her.

Contact: Mairi MacLean 420-3013 (W)
424-2519 (H)

Left message Has Dale's #

✓ The Gateway

The university's twice-weekly newspaper.

Contact: Suzette Chan 5168 (W)

Has Dale's #

✓ CBC Radio, "Edmonton PM"

Lianne Zimmerman. Since she doesn't know much about you, she'd like to speak with you on the phone first to see if you're okay (she didn't say that of course). I don't listen to CBC but I know I'm suppose to - i.e. politically correct thing to do, fairly intellectual/stimulating stuff, etc.

✓ That's it for interview requests but there are a few other things that you might be interested in. 1) Shirley Neuman teaches a Comparative Literature course here at the university and belongs to a women's reading group which focusses on Women's Theory. They have informal meetings and would be interested in having you speak at one of them on "Women in the Curriculum" or "The Nature of Knowledge." The reason this isn't in your schedule is that you were booked up by the time Shirley called. Therefore, I told her that it would be totally up to you and that one of us would contact her.

Shirley Neuman: 2180 (W) 436-1946 (H) No.

2) Abortion by Choice, Annual General Meeting, October 2, 7:30 pm

Showing "The Silent Scream" and Planned Parenthood's response to the film. No formal request - Dallas just thought that you might be interested. It's taking place at the Law Centre on campus.

3) I just remembered that there is a "Take Back the Night" march tonight at 7:30. It's basically a march to protest violence against women. Talk to me if you're interested.

Just received another interview request:

✓ Canadian Woman Studies/les cahiers de la femme

A feminist periodical out of Toronto. The woman who would do this interview is contacting The Journal (the least sexist and biggest daily newspaper in Edmonton) to see if they'd also like to carry the interview.

Contact: Carol Hlus 425-1266
432-2199

Gave Dale's number, Sept. 25, pm.

-or leave a message at the English department

Also gave Dale's number to Heather Lyons.

Dear Dale;

Here's another piece of paper to add to your file. Karen Booth Has Dale's #.
of the Edmonton Journal (newspaper) would like to interview
you. Her numbers are 429-5369 (W), 474-1836 (H).

Also, would it be all right with you if your lectures (parts of them at least) were aired on a local radio program? The program is called "Speaker of the Week" and it runs on Fridays from 7:00 to 7:30 pm. Let me know. Thanks.

subject: ACCOMMODATION FOR DALE SPENDER AND ALISON JAGGAR

With regard to the accommodation for our two Distinguished Visitors, they are both being housed in an apartment in Garneau Guest Housing. Unfortunately, we were unable to book a single unit for both, and therefore had to put Dr. Spender in a more expensive family unit. However, the total cost for both ( $$600.00 + $225.00 = $825.00$ ) is less than the total budgeted ( $$448.00 + $448.00 = $896.00$ ).

The bill for each will be sent to you directly from Housing and Food Services.

Thank you for your cooperation.

Many of you will know Bruce as one of Canada's best middle distance runners of the late 50's and early 60's. He competed in the 1964 Olympics and was winner of the Lou Marsh Trophy in 1961.

INTER-DEPARTMENTAL

CORRESPONDENCE

TO Leslie Stewart

DATE 19 June 1985

FROM Rosalind Sydie

Heard via Dallas that you have some dates for Dale Spender and that topics are on their way. As I shall be away when the latter arrive, in all probability, and I am not sure when Ann returns I would suggest that you do a mailing to the following indicating something on the order that; Dale Spender will be on campus from x to y and available to talk on the following list of topics (list them). Then ask if they would be interested in having Spender address their department and students and, if possible, for them to give you a date. The date might not be possible but if you have some indication of interest that would be great. If Dale Spender includes a vitae with her list of topics you might include some of the highlights in the letter you send to them all. A sort of circular, with individual names at the head, on inter-departmental letterhead should be O.K.

In the following list I have included the departments and in some cases included a c.c to someone in the department. The latter is to provide a double insurance ; someone with an interest, possibly, will be alerted and will hopefully spur departments on into doing something definite.

Family Studies, (cc. Dean D. Badir)

 Education Foundations, (cc. Prof. M. Asheton-Smith)
 Educational Psychology
 Political Science
 Philosophy (cc. Prof. King-Farlow)

If anyone else can come up with other departments, just add them on.
 Good luck.

Dr. Dale Spender
Flat 4
Rossetti House
Flood Street
London FW3 5TS

Dear Dr. Spender:

It was a pleasure to talk to you the other day, and I'm delighted to know that you will be able to come here in September. I'm writing now to confirm what I said on the phone. (We're threatened with a postal strike and I'm sending this with friends who are flying to London tonight.)

I mentioned that we're working to establish a Women's Studies program at this University. The program is being devised by a committee advisory to the Vice-President, and the Faculty of Arts (on whose behalf I am writing) is supporting the work of the Vice-President's committee by organizing a year of lectures in Women's Studies. Some of these lectures will be given by members of our own staff, and some by distinguished visitors whom we'll invite from other universities in this country as well as in the U.S. and the U.K. We want the lectures to centre mainly on the traditional arts disciplines (that is, the humanities, social sciences and fine arts) and we hope that they will widen awareness in this community of exciting work that is being done. We want to launch our series with your visit in the last two weeks of September.

As I said on the phone, we hope that while you are here you would give two or three public lectures, direct some seminars for students and staff who are working in women's studies areas, attend some classes, and make yourself available for conversation with students and staff. We can work out the details after the arrangements have been approved (though I will say in the nomination that I must send to the Central Administration that you will give two or three public lectures and two seminars and that you will meet with classes in more than one department).

We will pay your expenses (we'll pay airfare, accommodation in an apartment near the campus, a daily allowance for food and miscellaneous expenses) and an honorarium of not less than $1000 Canadian, probably about $1250.

Our procedure is this: we must nominate you as a Visiting Distinguished Professor by 25th March. The nomination needs to include the curriculum vitae you are sending (if this is held up in postal strike, I'll have to phone again for details) and a description of what you will do while you're here. We ought to know within about three weeks from that date whether our nomination has been approved. (It's because of our procedures that I have had to invite you at this stage tentatively, though it's unlikely that our nomination would not be approved, I think.)

We're delighted at the prospect of seeing you in September (when, by the way, the Rockies will have rushed into autumnal splendour). You will find here a lot of admirers of Man Made Language and the other books, and your visit will be important to us. I, alas, won't meet you myself, because I'll be on sabbatical leave in London and Oxford, but maybe we can have a drink (you sitting on the smokers' side of the table and I on the reformed, abstinent and still longing side) together before or after your visit.

With best wishes,

Yours sincerely,

Flood Street

England

Dear Dale,

This is a follow-up to Pat Clements' letter to you of March 3, 1985. I am writing in my capacity as Chair of the Vice-President's (Academic) Advisory Committee on Women's Studies which, along with several departments within the Faculty of Arts, is coordinating your visit here in September. Let me say at the outset how delighted and excited everyone is that you will be on our campus for two weeks. I have met you personally but it is unlikely you would remember. It was on a bus down in Bloomington, Indiana at the National Women's Studies Association Conference in 1980! You, I remember, were a keynote speaker.

A much more formal letter (see enclosed) is necessary so that you can obtain the obligatory documents for the immigration authorities. This letter, hopefully, contains the much more essential information! I think also that it may make more sense for us to phone you in a few weeks once you've had an opportunity to think about the contents of this package.

First, let's talk about specific dates. Our fall term begins on September 9th. Therefore, we would like to schedule your visit for two weeks sometime between September 16th and October 3rd. We are flexible and there is no need for your visit to begin on a Monday if you would prefer to begin on another day.

Second, what you actually do during those two weeks is very much up to you. In order to give you some idea of past visits, I enclose two examples: one (Margrit Eichler) who was brought here by the Women's Program in the Faculty of Extension and another (Bruce Kidd) who visited my own department. However, in your case, we would like you to have as much exposure on the campus as possible and indeed to the community at large. We plan to advertise your visit widely both within and outside the university. In general, I think we are looking at at least one public lecture, one or two open university lectures, some specific lectures to various departments (e.g. English, History, Sociology) as well as some individual consultation with interested students and staff. I know this sounds like an awful lot but we do tend to work our distinguished visitors hard!

What I would like from you relatively soon is a list of topics which you would like to address. I personally have read a good deal of your work and know that your interests are tremendously broad. Therefore, I would like to leave this very flexible at the moment in order to give you as much input as possible.

Third, with regard to travel, our budget was determined on the premise that you would be travelling on a direct flight to Edmonton as cheaply as possible. We realize, of course, that you might wish to either begin or end your visit in the east. In fact, I know there are several universities in eastern Canada (e.g. Queen's University in Kingston) who would love to take advantage of your visit to this side of the Atlantic. Since I have no idea whether this is something you would wish to do, whenever I receive such a request, I will have them write to you directly. Finally, in order for us to pay for your flight in advance, we would have to book it from here. Therefore, I need some sort of indication as to your overall travel plans and how you wish to proceed with regard to ticketing.

Fourth, with regard to accommodation during your stay we would like to arrange for you to stay in a small, self-contained apartment on campus. This will give you privacy and flexibility. How does this sound? I understand also that you smoke, therefore we will arrange office space where that is not a problem!

I think that takes care of at least the start of our planning for your visit. Some of the details will be looked after by the Administrative Coordinator to our committee, Leslie Stewart, as I shall be on and off the campus for the next three months. Nonetheless, we all want to ensure that your visit is profitable, comfortable and fun.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Dear Dr. Spender,

It gives me great pleasure to write on behalf of the University of Alberta, and specifically the Advisory Committee on Women's Studies, extending to you a formal invitation to come to our university as a Distinguished Guest Lecturer for a period of two weeks in September 1985.

Over the next few months, we will be arranging the program for your visit and will supply you with any detailed information you may require, either about your schedule during your visit here or about the provisions that have been made for your accommodation while you are in Edmonton. I write to inform you more formally about the financial arrangements that have been made for your visit and about arrangements you must make to enter Canada.

The budget that has been approved for your visit is approximately as follows:

Economy Airfare (London/Edmonton)	$750.00
Ground Transportation	100.00
Accommodation (14 nights @ $32.00)	448.00
Per diem (14 @ $50.00)	700.00
Honorarium	2,000.00
Total	$3,998.00

These figures are based on current fares and exchange rates and of course will alter when those things do. Would you be sure to keep any receipts relating to your visit and to your stay here as a visitor; the University's regulations require submission of these with the travel claim at the end of your visit.

Citizens of the United Kingdom are required by Canadian immigration regulations to seek authorization of employment before presenting themselves at a port of entry. To do this you must present "appropriate documentation" at a Canadian Consulate. (No doubt you know Canada House at Trafalgar Square.) The "appropriate documentation" consists of this letter, which is your formal invitation to come here as a Distinguished Guest Lecturer, and some evidence that you are permanently resident and employed in the United Kingdom. May I suggest that you perform this exercise reasonably well in advance of your proposed travel, so that if there are any difficulties we can correspond about them.

We do hope that you will be able to accept this invitation, and I join my colleagues in looking forward very much to having you with us in the fall.

Yours sincerely,

M. Ann Hall

Dear Ann,

What a delightfully welcoming letter. Many thanks. It makes it so much easier to respond to such a warm invitation. I'll try and be both formal, and informal in return. Answering all the questions, and not leaving out the personal touch. (I keep asking Cheri Kramarae to do a study of women's 'business letters' and to compare them with the manuals for officialese -- as written by men: I never fail to be astonished at the difference between what is considered good business practice and the way women operate....your example of two letters being but another case in point.)

Now, I have just spent the last half hour drafting out a list of possible lecture topics, seminar topics, and informal discussion topics. (I have quite deliberately placed issues of the nature of knowledge in the discussion context because I think this a difficult topic for a big or a formal audience; much better to chat about it. But you'll see all that explained on enclosed sheet.) I hope it serves its purpose.

The later the better in September suits me. So would it be alright to come from Thursday 19th until Thursday October 3rd? And I propose to go on to Australia from the University of Alberta. I want to spend October there (a good time of the year) and work on the book I am writing on Australian women writers.

What I will do (although I haven't sorted it out with my travel agent yet) is to get a round-the-world ticket. Being in Canada I figure that I am on my way to Australia anyway, and I have to make almost as many arrangements to handle things here for two weeks as I do for six. So will that be alright with you? I, of course, will pay the difference from the cheap return fare to Canada on to Australia and back here.

I am really looking forward to being with you. Writing is a solitary life and there are occasions when I find that I really miss teaching and the contact with enquiring minds. From what you have sent me it is abundantly clear that I will find some enquiring minds. And I relish the prospect.

It also looks as though you do a lot of work. You have certainly made it immeasurably easier for me by providing me with the programmes of previous speakers. And I really am quite easy going. (My English teacher would disapprove of so many 'reallys'.) I can readily cope with big lectures and informal groups. As long as I can have my occasional (and private) cigarette and I suppose if the truth were known, my more than <sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub> occasional glass of wine.

One thing I would like to do would be to talk about publishing...and about prospects. For women. I do have a firm idea of what sort of manuscripts publishers here are looking for and I would be only too pleased to provide advice and encouragement for any aspiring authors. Maybe that would be best organised as a more informal chat.

Anyway, enclosed is a list of suggested topics. Any special requests will be

Suggested Outline:

Lecture Topics

x 1. The Silence of Women

General lecture on the silence of women in language and culture: illustrating the 'absence' of women's meanings as they apply to semantics, right through to the curriculum and the selective write-up of history.

Drawing on MAN MADE LANGUAGE, WOMEN OF IDEAS -- AND WHAT MEN HAVE DONE TO THEM, and INVISIBLE WOMEN.

x 2. Mothers of the Novel; 106 Good Women Novelists Before Jane Austen

Lecture for literary studies; showing how and why women 'invented' the novel and how and why the men of letters have presented a version of men as the makers of the novel. Another version of women doing something creative and men stepping in and being perceived to do it better!

Would also have wide general appeal for anyone who reads novels. Drawing on forthcoming book with Routledge and Kegan Paul of the title of the lecture.

3. A Review of Women's Reviews

Lecture prepared for Cambridge University and unable to get published; of course. About the way women's books are reviewed and the perception of the reviews. Original research arising from the assertion that these days you have to be a woman writer in order to get reviewed....that the pendulum has swung the other way (has its counterpart in that you have to be a black or a woman in order to be promoted). For six months the columns of quality review papers were measured: women were granted less than 6% of the column inches: editors were contacted who perceived that women had more than 50% of the space. The old principle that if women aren't supposed to be there at all -- if they are supposed to be invisible or silent -- then almost any percentage is too much, and the pendulum has swung the other way. Suitable for literary studies, sociology, issues of the representation of women in culture.

4. Boys Own Education

Lecture concentrating specifically on the way in which education is oriented towards males. Critique of classroom dynamics and the curriculum -- and the structure and organisation of education -- to reveal the extent to which it is education designed by men for the benefit of men.

Would have wide general appeal as well as being of specific interest to educationalists.

Drawing on INVISIBLE WOMEN.

5. Women's Intellectual History

Providing some documentation of women's intellectual contribution which has been eliminated or denied. Also raises questions about the nature of knowledge and methods of validation. Discussing some of the ideas that women have had in the past and which indicate that much of what is being said today has not only been put forward before, but is often quite conservative in comparison.

Draws on WOMEN OF IDEAS AND WHAT MEN HAVE DONE TO THEM, FEMINIST THEORISTS, TIME AND TIDE WAIT FOR NO MAN, and THERE'S ALWAYS BEEN A WOMEN'S MOVEMENT.

x 6. Reflecting Men

Popular lecture to outline the ways women manage men's egos, how and why. Divulging the 'trade secrets' of femininity. Drawing on the title of a forthcoming book with André Deutsch which takes its title from Virginia Woolf's statement that for centuries women have served as looking glasses for men reflecting then at twice their normal size!

Seminars:

Any of the above could also serve as the basis for seminars and discussions. And vice versa. With a few exceptions, if required, I could make some of the seminar topics more readily available as lectures.

1. The nature of Literary Criticism

I am currently working on a book which is entitled THE WRITING OR THE SEX and it takes to task literary judgements which assume that the criteria for assessment are based on the writing when it is demonstrable that they are based on the sex. Returning even to Elizabeth Gaskell and Charlotte

3.

2. The nature of knowledge

The issues of research, methodology, <sup>bias</sup> bias and 'objectivity' (the name men give to their subjectivity): male as the norm. Validation of knowledge. One truth or a mutiplicity of truths? The feminist challenge to the construction of knowledge.

Drawing on MEN'S STUDIES MODIFIED and FOR THE RECORD: THE MAKING AND MEANING OF FEMINIST KNOWLEDGE recently published by the Women's Press

3. Gatekeeping

The role played by publishers and editors (and academics) in the distribution of information and the availabilty of knowledge. (Why can't I get my critiques on publishers and academic editors published?)

4. Women in theCurriculum

How do you get more women into the curriculum when the definititon of women is 'not up to standard'. What about all the innocent statements that if there were more women writers on the course it would lower the standard...and not allow sufficient time for a study of the 'greats' and the serious business of the course? (Women are between 2% and 7% of the women writers in literary curriculums in North America, Britain and Australia: they are less as the substance of history even though there's a lot on Queen Elizabeth I and Queen Victoria.)

5. Women and Fiction

A bit presumptuous seeing it was the title of Virginia Woolf's famous lecture! But women's relationship to fiction is a most underresearched subject....why are women the major readers of fiction? Why do women write fiction? (And why do so few get published: where there are statistics -- as in education for example -- it seems that women write more and better than men. But when they hit the job market a strange thing happens... women are less than 20% of the published writers in <sup>the</sup>English speaking world. and this includes romances.) And what about romance? The biggest single category of book sales? Why is it so vilified? Escapist literature which caricatures masculinity -- like James Bond -- enjoys a much higher status. The writing or the sex?

Discussion Topics:

Any of the above could be discussion topics, in different departments or with different members of staff, students, or the public.. although I think that to have reasonable discussions the groups should be relatively small. But I would be prepared to talk about any of the above topics, and any others (even if they are presented to me on arrival) to small groups at any time. Maybe not ANY time, but most times.

Any issues related to any of the books that I have written -- or to the journal that I edit -- are always open to discussion.

Note:

I haven't done any educational research since 1980. A little on women's employment opprtunities. A little on women in the curriculum. But nothing on classroom dynamics. So as long as people don't mind me talking about data that's three or four years old, I am happy to talk about it...but I haven't got anything new to add to INVISIBLE WOMEN.

Ann,

I feel I should add a note...hope the above is all OK. And many apologies for the typing. It was never my strong point. I grew up at a time when it was rebellion to say you wouldn't be a secretary.....and I strongly resisted any encouragement to learn to type...which of course I now regret.

Many thanks for all the arrangements that you have made. The idea of a self contained flat and a smoking office sounds perfect.

Cheris Kramarae once persuaded me to stay with her and said I could go without a cigarette. One night, when everyone else was in bed I just couldn't resist the temptation...and I lit one. And off went the fire alarm. And no one knew how to turn it off because the fire brigade was supposed to come. It almost cured me. Most embarrassing. Ever since then I have worked on the principle that no matter how good my intentions I should assume that I will have a cigarette sooner or later.

Anyway, I hope this gives you enough scope to start with. Any queries or suggestions...please feel free to go ahead. I want to do my bit towards making this a most successful visit: you have certainly done yours.

Look forward to <sup>hearing</sup>heraing from you; I will be the United States next week at the NWSA conference...so if you don't get a response for a while you should know that it is because I am away. I'll be back in July.

Best wishes (again)

Dear Dale,

Thank you for your marvellous letter of June 12th. Sorry to be a little slow in responding but as I explained on the phone, I'm criss-crossing the country at the moment interviewing former Olympic athletes for a research project. Since I'm back in Edmonton for a few days, I wanted to respond and give you a progress report on your visit.

Also, I am sorry about phoning you and having to bring up the matter of what you do to men! However, I was reviewing some feedback and wanted to be able to deal with it by saying "Look, I've talked personally to Dale and this is her position. . . ." So, thank you for being honest. There is absolutely no problem here and you are obviously free to deal with any situation as you see fit. I sometimes wonder why we end up spending so much emotional energy on the increasingly fragile male ego! Enough said.

And now to deal with much more important matters. Your lecture and seminar topics sound absolutely wonderful. What we are busy doing at present is coordinating the topics with departmental requests. We have sent letters out to contacts in Family Studies, History, Anthropology, Educational Foundations, Educational Psychology, Political Science, Philosophy, English, Romance Languages, Comparative Literature, and of course, Sociology. Don't worry! You won't be speaking in them all, but at present we want to make it known as widely as possible that you are coming and that you would have something relevant to say there. Once we have some idea as to general departmental interest, we'll slot in the specific lectures/seminars and arrange for the public/university ones.

One specific request which has come forward is that you do an evening lecture at Athabasca University. Athabasca University is a distance education institute (somewhat like the Open University) whose campus is located in the small town of Athabasca about 100 miles north of here. They will pay travel expenses and provide a small honorarium. If you are willing, I think it would be an excellent idea. Athabasca is trying to get a Women's Studies program off the ground, there is some interest in the community, and as the larger institution, we like to cooperate whenever possible. However, we didn't want to say "yes" until we get the okay from you. Incidentally, one or more of us from here would drive up with you so that we won't send you off into the hinterland unaccompanied!

Your accommodation has been booked and it's quite pleasant. You should be very comfortable. We haven't got the specific "smoking" office yet but don't worry, we're working on it. Your sense of humour about the "habit" is wonderful. As a life-long non-smoker, I find those of you who do smoke increasingly sensitive to our lungs! Incidentally, I have no idea whether you would wish to make use of our athletic facilities, but if so, I'll certainly make certain you can do whatever you wish. (No commentary was intended by the juxtaposition of the last two statements!)

Finally, the dates (Sept. 19th to Oct. 3rd) are fine. Term will have been in session about 10 days so hopefully students and staff alike will have settled down. Your travel plans sound fine and I assume that you will make all your own arrangements. However, if you could give us some idea of your travel costs before you arrive, we can arrange to have the money available here when you arrive. We will certainly have your honorarium available. Unfortunately, our university regulations don't allow for any of this to be paid in advance. Also, presumably you'll give us your flight number and arrival time. Will you be flying directly to Edmonton?

I can't think of anything else, Dale, except to indicate that there are four of us directly working on your visit: Leslie Stewart (our administrative coordinator who has typed this letter), Dallas Cullen (who is taking over Chairing the Committee in September), and Ros Sydie in Sociology who is working on the coordination of your talks, as well as myself. However, we will try very hard to keep any contradictory information to a minimum!

I can't thank you enough for being so cooperative. We will try not to spring things on you when you arrive but I'm very glad to hear that you actually agree to it. Wonderful! For our part, we guarantee one hell of a good time!

Take care, and please let us know if there is anything we can do to make your visit more pleasant.

Sincerely,

Ann Hall

P.S.

The new letterhead attests to our increasing status!

Dear Dale,

Hi. I'm Leslie Stewart. I feel somewhat like a voyeur reading Ann's letters to you and your letter back but I have to admit that I've enjoyed it. I'm looking forward to your visit, as are many of my friends. Speaking of my friends, I was visiting a couple of them last night and they think that it would be a great idea to have a pot luck supper at their place early on in your visit so that you could get to know some women in the community and recognize some of the faces at your talks. How would you feel about that? Also, a feminist newsmagazine has just started up in Edmonton and they would like to interview you while you're here. I don't think you need to respond to these two requests formally since things like these are more flexible than your "official" itinerary, but I just thought I'd let you know. Really I only meant to say 'hi' in this note but I see I've done much more than that. Bye for now.

Dear Ann,

Have been doing all the right things and getting quotes for air flights etc. (Will go into Canada House next week and fix up work permit.) But just wanted to let you know that the Apex flight from London to Edmonton is £590 each way and that the excursion fare is £890 return. It's more than you have allowed for in the budget. Just wanted to let you know.

Looking forward to hearing from you and hope all is proceeding smoothly with your own research and all the queries about that dreadful feminist who won't talk to men. (By the way I hope you did receive my letter...12th June; haven't had any acknowledgement.)

Best Wishes

Dear Ann (and Leslie),

Letter received today...many thanks. Delighted that it is relatively easy for you to deal with though must admit to some intimidation at the list of the names of all those departments. Have to say that you two are making it very easy for me as well though.

re Athabasca; of course. Just don't give me too many engagements one after the other and no time for a quiet time in between. AND I WILL BRING WITH ME MY JANE FONDA TAPE....I do the work out almost every morning .....otherwise I get writers' neck and middle age spread! (Also it compensates for the 'habit').

When I hear from you re fares I will book my ticket and send you all the details...and pay for it with my credit card. (Magic they are.) Then pay it back when I get the money.

Pot luck supper and news magazine fine! Photo will accompany me!

And many many thanks for your warm letter(s) and welcome...makes life a lot easier.

Really looking forward to meeting you,

Best Wishes

Dear Leslie:

Thank you for your prompt reply to my request. We are most interested in having Dale Spender address the Athabasca University community during her visit to the University of Alberta in September. I have circulated the list of seminar/lecture topics to the Women's Studies Co-ordinator, Rebecca Coulter, and other members of our Women's Studies Committee. Should a visit to AU be possible and the details arranged, either Rebecca or myself will indicate the choice(s) for the lecture/seminar topic(s) selected by the AU community.

Similarly, AU would be more than pleased to have Dr. Alison Jagger present a lecture or seminar to our community in March 1986. Once again, I understand that this request will need to be approved by the Advisory Committee.

One point of interest. I attended the Workshop on the Recovery of Methodist Women's History, 20-23 June 1985, at Drew University, and sponsored by the Women's History Project of the General Commission on Archives and History, The United Methodist Church (US). I enclose a copy of the program for your information. Two persons, both trained historians, might be considered by your committee to participate in future colloquia. These are Carolyn De Swarte Gifford, Co-ordinator of the Women's History Project, and Hilah F. Thomas, of the Division of Global Ministries, UMC. Gifford has published a number of papers on the WCTU and the associational life of church women. Thomas is co-editor, with Rosemary Skinner Keller and Louise L. Queen, of the two volume Women in New World's, Historical Perspectives on the Wesleyan Tradition. Both are feminists, excellent speakers, and dynamic personalities and would be an asset to any programme which focuses on the history of women. Should you desire more information, I would be pleased to provide letters of introduction.

Sincerely,

Dear Michael;

Here is the information regarding Dale Spender's visit. * I've made a note of your request to have Dale visit Athabasca U. during her stay here and I will pass it on to the Committee.

The only other visitor that I can tell you about for certain at this point is Alison Jaggar. She will be a Distinguished Guest Lecturer at the University of Alberta for a period of two weeks in March 1986. As of yet, nothing has been determined regarding her schedule or topics of discussion.

Details regarding other visitors and activities around Women's Studies are also still being worked out. I'll keep you posted as things develop. Thanks for your call.

Sincerely;

* Michael inquired as to possibility of bringing Dale up to Athabasca for an evening. A.H. would pay travel costs plus an honorarium. I sent him current info. on Dale's visit (i.e. her topics).

Dear Women:

I am very excited to know that Dale Spender will be in Edmonton for a few weeks. It's always uplifting for the women's community to have such co-operative ventures between countries.

I would like to offer my home to host a gathering with Dale and a small group of women who are involved with various women's organizations, namely Common Woman Books, Positive Images, Alberta's Women's Newsmagazine and ASWAC. It would be great to be able to share ideas with Dale in an informal setting and Dale would probably enjoy spending some time with a group of women who work in such different ways towards our feminist goals.

The dates which I am available during her stay in Edmonton are somewhat limited due to my job which involves a lot of shift work. They are September 20, 21, 22 27, 28 and the 29th, during the day or evening.

In sisterhood,

INTER-DEPARTMENTAL

CORRESPONDENCE

TO Leslie Stewart

DATE 19 June 1985

FROM Rosalind Sydie

Heard via Dallas that you have some dates for Dale Spender and that topics are on their way. As I shall be away when the latter arrive, in all probability, and I am not sure when Ann returns I would suggest that you do a mailing to the following indicating something on the order that; Dale Spender will be on campus from x to y and available to talk on the following list of topics (list them). Then ask if they would be interested in having Spender address their department and students and, if possible, for them to give you a date. The date might not be possible but if you have some indication of interest that would be great. If Dale Spender includes a vitae with her list of topics you might include some of the highlights in the letter you send to them all. A sort of circular, with individual names at the head, on inter-departmental letterhead should be O.K.

In the following list I have included the departments and in some cases included a c.c to someone in the department. The latter is to provide a double insurance ; someone with an interest, possibly, will be alerted and will hopefully spur departments on into doing something definite.

Family Studies, (cc. Dean D. Badir)
History, (cc. Prof. P. Prestwich)
Anthropology
Education Foundations, (cc. Prof. M. Asheton-Smith)
Educational Psychology
Political Science
Philosophy (cc. Prof. King-Farlow)
English
Romance Languages
Comparative Literature.

If anyone else can come up with other departments, just add them on.
Good luck.

Dear Dale,

Hello again! I hope this reaches you before you reach us. We wanted to let you know the topics for your public lectures. They're listed along with the dates and times on the enclosed flyer. We are starting to get a lot of requests for seminars too but unfortunately I don't have that organized enough to send you. I hope you aren't run off your feet while you're here - everyone is trying to keep that in mind.

People are very excited that you're coming. I get about a million (twelve) phone calls a day asking when you're coming, when you're giving lectures, etc., etc. Things have been very hectic and everything has been gearing up for the start of the school year. As for me, I'm off to Winnipeg tomorrow for the Women's Music Festival (squeezing in one last holiday). I'm really looking forward to it, except for the 16 hour drive. Even that somehow doesn't seem so bad - your concept of distance (i.e. what is far) changes dramatically when you live on the prairies.

So, we will be seeing you soon. I would warn you to bring your winter coat but everyone will accuse you of being a stupid American if you do. I'm looking forward to meeting you. Have a safe trip.

Dallas;

I got a message from Ann on the computer the other day and she asked me to pass along the following information:

- get on the message system!
- Ann has spoken to Dale on the phone and a letter is on its way regarding topics that Dale would like to address
- Dale will book her own flights as she is going to Australia afterwards
- dates that are best for her are Sept. 19 - Oct. 3
- she'd like to stay in the self-contained housing in Garneau (I have the application and <sup>am</sup> just waiting to get some information from Ann before I send it in)
- Dale does answer questions from men (i.e. after lectures, etc.) but will point out where/how men are dominating if this should occur

Dale Spender of Australia won't answer men's questions

Be rude to three men a day, feminist advises

By KAREN BOOTH
Journal Staff Writer
Australian feminist Dale

Spender has a liberating piece of advice for women the world over: be rude to three men a day.

The author and lecturer smiles so demurely that listeners might think tongue was planted firmly in cheek, but Spender couldn't be more serious.

"Men do all the talking and women do all the listening and supporting. Research has proven this out," said Spender, who drew capacity audiences to three recent lectures at the University of Alberta.

"The ruder I am, the more I smile. It makes it very difficult for men to talk and then I say, 'You know what it feels like now.'"

She's so indignant about the ways in which men exercise power over women through conversation, literature and politics that in most cases she won't answer questions from the men attending her talks.

"I don't mind men coming up later and saying, 'Thank you, I enjoyed your talk' and not giving themselves a pat on the back, but I get very cross with men who go on and on while there are women standing there waiting for a chance to say something. Really, what have they learned?"

Spender is so intrigued by the behavior of men and women at meetings that she intends to make it a research subject.

"A woman will make a suggestion and it's ignored; no one listens. Two minutes later, a man makes the same suggestion and everyone pipes up about how great it is."

Spender doesn't agree with the notion that men should learn how to deal with the liberated woman and thereby relinquish some of the power they've wielded.

"Every day for seven years I gave (my ex-husband) private tuition," she laughs. "He could have had 10 degrees in what men should do around the house."

United Nations' figures indicate men control more than 99 per cent of the world's wealth, Spender said. "If women want that to change, they have to use their resources to do that for themselves rather than putting all their energy into (changing) men."

The feminist movement itself has changed little, she notes, "although women are still getting a bad deal." It's the reasons why women become involved that have shifted.

"There were no books and courses (on feminist issues) back 15 years ago and women became involved over events such as boycotting a beauty show.

"A lot of women today are involved out of a sense of scholarship. They read something and think, 'This is ridiculous, I want to do something about it.'"

Women have been reluctant to voice their opinions because they've been made to feel they aren't as important. "If men were treated the same way, they would have little or no confidence either.

"(French theorist Jean Jacques) Rousseau said women should be educated to please men ... but in 1792, Mary Wollstonecraft said women should be educated to please themselves.

"Unfortunately, women are still trying to please men."

Reaction to Australian feminist shows how far there is to go

June Sheppard

It appears Australian feminist Dale Spender did what she set out to do recently in Edmonton.

Through outrageous humor based on solemn realities (as all good humor is), she dramatized the absurd inequities between the sexes. Speaking at the U of A, Spender advised women the world over to be "rude to three men a day." Horrors!

From the Your Opinion page reactions, it's clear some people's funnybones are dysfunctional on this issue. Pity! Some males' responses have bordered on hysteria — ironically supposed to be a female characteristic. It's hard to escape the speculation that the burden of rage they obviously carry is guilt-associated.

Thomas Carr, Edmonton, lashes out to inform that "most feminists" are "rude and boorish" as well as "obnoxious bigots" who "cultivate hate." Frankly, he doesn't much sound as if he's intent on cultivating compassion and understanding himself.

Carr is certainly not alone in seeking comfort from wishing the feminist movement to be a mere "cult — a fad." He's frank to admit having to console himself this way. I, a feminist, can feel some sympathy for anyone seeking refuge in such hollow consolation.

Professor R.W.F. Wilcock's letter shows the academic mind can miss the point equally well. It's couched in loftier language. Feminism, he assures us, is energized by "vicious, imprisoning authoritarianism" as well as an envy and hatred of men "usually projected from broken marriages." The latter comment I trust an academic would have scientific data to prove. Moreover, feminists are also guilty of "intellectual mendacity." Big words — small perceptions!

I was unable to hear Spender in person. But her words concentrated my thoughts on the feminist revolution — the most significant since the Industrial — marvelously well.

Its progress has been amazing but it still has a way to go with hulls and setbacks, doubts and triumphs along the course. However, the presence of discrimination against women has been proven. Now it is solutions that are sought.

What does this boorish, obnoxious, envious, man-hating cult consider vital on its agenda? Protection of children against abuse within the family and exploitation without; an end to the hypocrisy that puts homemakers on pedestals and then leaves them to suffer for their unpaid, unpensionable work with late-life poverty; an end to the double-standard in pay cheques, in attitudes to aging, in control of reproduction and women's own bodies. Space does not permit a full list here.

I think of glamorous Gloria Steinem whose private life testifies against the charge of man-hater and who, while herself childless, works with a passion on behalf of children. She's regularly attacked for being unfeminine, suffering from penis envy, not caring about family life by those politicians and church leaders who mouth pious platitudes about the family while studiously ignoring the realities.

Increasingly, the feminist movement is about ending women's exclusion from decision-making about war and peace, about stockpiling ever more vicious weapons, about false propaganda from whatever source, about women's intelligence, energy, will, humane-ness being put to use internationally.

The letters quoted above indicate discouragingly that some struggles are still very elementary.

There are times when patience against continuing paternalism gives out and then humorous ridicule can be a great safety valve. Spender used it and many women and men too understood. They appreciate that a world which only one sex controls is not a healthy, or hopeful, or humane world by half!

Macho crutch

Re: Editorial of Oct. 8, "Feminist Crutch"

I am very disappointed in those individuals who hide behind the one comment ("rude to three men a day") as an excuse to ignore the many legitimate arguments made during Dr. Spender's two hour session.

In order to take this comment in context, men should realize that normally polite women are only rude when provoked. Men who treat women with respect need not worry, but may instead relax and acknowledge the issues involved.

Dr. Spender has achieved her goal — she has promoted the recognition and discussion of a very pressing subject. Ironically, a flippant, defensive editorial only serves to prove Dr. Spender's point.

MBA—"just a piece of paper"

by CUP and Tim Kihn

Are business schools teaching their students the right stuff? Not necessarily, according to Ron McTavish, the new director of Concorida's Centre for Management Studies in Montreal.

"Business schools tend to teach static models and routing ways to solve a problem," he said, "but business doesn't solve its problems with models. We need creative thinking, but unfortunately that's tough to teach."

One student in his second year of a two year MBA program at McGill University put it this way, "I was surprised at how completely and utterly useless everything they taught me was."

"You're taught all this marvelous and wonderful theory," he said, "but as soon as you get out into the real world, all the rules go out the window." The student wished to remain anonymous.

"I just want to get out there," he said, "I'm doing this (the degree) for a piece of paper."

According to McTavish, universities must direct their management programs more toward the needs of business, not academics. Although he regrets the trend in universities to devalue the pursuit of knowledge for its own sake, they have no choice, he said.

"Profits are tight right now," he said, "and the job prospects for graduates looks very bleak, so we better start finding out what (business) wants."

Dr. R.E. Schneck, director of the MBA program at the University of Alberta does not disagree with McTavish, but states that "all social science disciplines teach static models and routine ways to solve a problem." According to Schneck, business schools follow a "fine line" between the theoretical and practical approach.

"Whenever the western economy faces a down period, business schools tend to draw a lot of criticism for supposedly losing touch with the business community." Schneck conceded that poor management may be partly to blame, but it is unfair to single out just one specific area.

But do University of Alberta business students feel that they're learning theory that is irrelevant in the "real world"?

"Personally, I don't think so," said one (anonymous) future executive. "But if Business and Commerce is becoming too abstract, then there are a lot of Education and Arts students who are really up the creek."

Spender tells men off

by Marilyn Sieben

"Any reasonable man must be able to support women's causes," says Dr. Dale Spender, "without expecting a pat on the back."

Spender is a feminist and renowned author who visited the campus this week and delivered a series of lectures.

Some 35 people from the Department of English participated in a seminar conducted by Spender, concerning Women's Intellectual History, on Sept. 26.

Different aspects of women's intellectual history were discussed, citing female authors whose credible works have been discounted by male critics.

Spender spoke on how women's intellectual efforts are often viewed by males in an antagonistic manner and seen mainly in a negative light instead of receiving full credit for the positive and creative aspects as well.

Too often, she says, women's ideas are not dealt with by men as ideas of substance, but simply as "women's ideas."

"Feeding male egos," said Spender, "fuels male dominance" in her final public lecture on October 1 about "Reflecting Men."

In quoting Virginia Wolfe, Spender explained through the centuries, women have served as looking glasses for men and reflect men back at themselves at twice their normal size.

"Women take men too seriously", and in the process grant men power. Male supremacy is an idea in women's heads, she says, thus women can control that idea.

Women engage in "selective stupidity" and "learned intellectual helplessness". Thus, "women won't be seen as intellectual creatures."

She says everything from women's posture or clothes to a simple smile act as a reflection to massage male egos and allow them to feel like the center of the universe.

However, in discussing "reflection" with 300 women at a London university, Spender found most women felt that they must really do this.

Spender concluded that women's oppression is not just in their minds but that there is a large materialistic aspect to it. Put simply, "If a man feels good he stays and pays."

Spender found that women are frightened 'not' to reflect men because of the economic and materialistic repercussions of an unhappy man.

However, Spender was adamant in saying that women must not be governed by fear and allow it to determine how they live their lives. Spender feel her biggest crime putting her energy into reflecting men.

Women have allowed men to mismanage the world.

She concluded by telling women they should rob the rich to give to the poor, take from men and give to women, but above all "make every effort to stop reflecting men at twice their normal size."

Sexual assault survivor talks

by Ann Grever

The Sexual Assault Centre runs a number of programs — from a rape crisis line to incest/rape counselling services to a Child Sex Abuse Treatment Program.

The Centre runs on volunteers. Jane Carstaedt, the director of the Centre, says the most important thing the centre offers "is an empathetic ear that will listen."

The Gateway spoke to one woman, Shirley, a volunteer at the Centre, who herself is a victim of incest.

How were you sexually assaulted?

I was offended by three men in my family — my cousin, my uncle and my brother-in-law. My cousin when I was about five-years-old, my uncle when I was about nine and my brother-in-law when I was about eleven. I am 49 years old now.

When did you first come to the Sexual Assault Centre?

It'll be about a year ago last May. Did you press charges or are you going to?

I haven't really made up my mind yet. I would charge them with child sexual assault. It would be my word against theirs. No one else that I know of has been sexually assaulted. I really haven't dealt with confronting them with this. They live down in Ontario and I ran away when I was sixteen. It's something I'd like to do.

I told my brother about four years ago and it's never been brought up since. There aren't any young girls left in that particular family. My brother-in-law's daughters are grown. There is a niece that I feel may have been sexually assaulted judging by her behav-

our. I'd like to talk to her.

How did you originally feel about the offence?

I guess I thought it was okay for them to do that. I finally ran away because I felt as long as I was there it would continue. I had no way to stop it. I felt helpless.

The first time my brother-in-law raped me. He used force. He belted me around a few times. From then on, rather than get beat up, I would just go along with it.

But didn't your family or your mother ever ask you after that where the bruises came from?

I don't think any of my family knew. Or if there was any suspicion of anything going on, it was my fault. I remember the time my uncle fondled me, I felt if I said anything, the question wouldn't be how could he do that — it was how could you let something like that happen. I was nine and he was in his sixties. He was old enough to know better.

It's the same now. A woman gets raped, she gets asked 'Why were you walking down the street at that time?'

My brother-in-law came up with the reason. He said he was teaching me the facts of life, so you won't get pregnant like your sister did. That's pretty logical. He showed me what not to do. And he was pretty careful about that.

I didn't start to menstruate until I was about fourteen and that's when the intercourse stopped. Other things continued on but the intercourse stopped.

Was anybody close to you affected by this?

Not at that particular time. I caused a lot of hurt, in my own way,

John Inegbedion and some Nigerian folk art. To see the real thing, drop by the gallery lounge in HUB.

but ask me why I'm doing this and I'll tell you.

I ran away from home. I didn't run alone, I left with a man I had met down there and who was already married. He was a safe person to be around. He never hurt me and has never hurt me and we're still married.

I just never really felt very good about myself. I was just not capable of doing anything. I was just a useless person, not even a person.

How has the Centre helped you, or has it helped you?

It's done a lot for me. I spend a lot of time hanging around because I appreciate what it's done for me.

I had directed a lot of anger towards myself. My counselling redirected it to where it was supposed to be going in the first place. Back to the offenders.

In what kind of ways did you show it?

I considered committing suicide. I directed a lot of it towards my children. I had six of them. They turned out not too bad, considering. But it was that feeling that I was angry but I didn't know what I was angry about. It was usually at myself. I became an alcoholic. I used to mutilate myself. I guess to see if I was real. I remember burning my hand with a cigarette and it didn't hurt. It was one of the times I was sober but I was really down. I had to see if I could feel.

I've been to many psychiatrists. They didn't do a thing. They didn't help. They talked about anything else except.

I don't know whether they couldn't deal with it or they didn't know of the feelings that were there. I could tell them about it. They would hear me out and would just say it happened forty years ago, what are you worried about.

How did the Sexual Assault Centre help you deal with it?

They asked me how I felt. In the AA program, I went to a minister, and even he couldn't help.

I felt guilty and angry and afraid. I guess a lot of this was just being really sad for the little kid who never got to be a little kid. It took a long time before I cried for that little kid and then put her away to where she was supposed to be.

Does it ever bother you that your family never did anything about it?

I guess I was angry that my mother never knew. I mean moms are supposed to know everything. But I think she did the best she could. My dad died when I was a baby. It was just something I don't think she could really comprehend.

How do you look at the incest now?

It's a part of my life. I'll never forget it. But it's where it's supposed to be. I can accept it now. There are occasions when I still get

WOMEN'S PROGRAMS

September to December 1985

Offered by the
WOMEN'S PROGRAM
Faculty of Extension,
University of Alberta,
Edmonton, Alberta

The objective of the Women's Program is to link the resources of the University with the needs and interests of women in the community. The Women's Program offers day-time, evening, noon-hour and weekend courses as well as workshops and public forums of special interest to women. Men, however, may be interested as well. All courses are non-credit and there is no particular educational background required.

The Women's Program offers courses in the following areas:

- applied women's studies to understand the position of women in history and contemporary society;
- issues of relevance to women;
- personal and skill development for women;
- as well as a Women's Resource Centre

THE WOMEN'S PROGRAM

The Women's Program was initiated in July, 1981. Since that time, over one hundred and seventy courses, workshops, seminars, conferences and public forums have been offered with over 5000 participants. The interest in courses of specific interest to women continues to grow as women identify their needs for education and for change, both as individuals and collectively. March 8, 1985, International Women's Day, marked the official opening ceremony of the Women's Program and Resource Centre in our house.

The Women's Program is under continual development. Although many of the basic courses offered remain the same, each term courses and especially conferences and public forums are developed to respond to current issues for women, e.g., the provincial workshop on Working for Change: Collaborative Research on Women's Work, the forum on Mid-life Wellness for Women, the provincial conference on Charting Our Rights: Alberta Women and the Charter of Rights and Freedoms, all held in the fall of 1984. In March, 1985, Dr. Margrit Eichler from Toronto was a Distinguished Visitor to the Program. Her presentations included: The Pro-Family Movement: Are They For or Against Families? and a Workshop on Non-Sexist Research. In addition, the Women's Program also undertakes special projects, such as the community-action research project on "The Needs of Immigrant Women in Edmonton". The two-year process resulted in the organizing of "Changing Together: A Centre for Immigrant Women".

As offerings are developed largely on the basis of needs identified by women, you are encouraged to contact the Women's Program if you have any ideas on courses which you would like to see offered or issues which you feel should be addressed.

The Women's Program attempts to address the special concerns of women. Child-care or child-care subsidies are made available when possible. It is the intention that no woman be prevented from taking courses for financial reasons, therefore financial assistance is available whenever possible for those who require it to attend courses. Please call us.

All courses and workshops this term are held on the University of Alberta campus.

For those attending week-end workshops, it is advisable to bring a bag lunch with you. Comfortable, informal clothing is also recommended.

If you are not already on our mailing list and would like to be please call us.

The Women's Program and Resource Centre is located in a University house in North Garneau at 11019 - 90 Avenue. This house provides a new home to the Women's Program, the Women's Resource Centre and special projects on women's issues. Please note, however that in-person registration is handled in the General Office at the Faculty of Extension, Room 228, Corbett Hall, between 112 St. and 114 St. on 82 Avenue.

For further information on the Women's Program please call 432-3093.

WOMEN'S RESOURCE CENTRE

A Women's Resource Centre has been developed by the Women's Program. The Centre serves individual women and women's organizations in the community as well as students and staff of courses offered by the Women's Program and the University.

The Women's Resource Centre contains books, periodicals, articles and information on, by and about women and issues of special concern to women. Information on and referral to services available locally to women is also provided e.g. health issue, educational resources, local events of interest to women, etc. Some materials are available on loan, others may be used in the reading area provided.

A small sample of the periodicals includes: Healthsharing, Canadian Women's Studies, Chatelaine, Resources for Feminist Research, etc. The library of nearly 1000 books includes such titles as OF Women

Born by Adrienne Rich, More Than a Labour of Love, Three Generations of Women's Rebellions by Gloria Steinem; The Cinderella Complex by Colette Dowling; Reweaving the Web of Live; Feminism and Non-Violence by Pam McAllister; The Menopause by Jean Coope; etc.

Thousands of articles, research studies etc. on almost every issue relating to women are available for use.

The Women's Resource Centre is located at 11019 - 90 Avenue, as part of the Women's Program, and is open to the public from 10:00 a.m. - 4:30 p.m., Tuesday to Friday plus Thursday evening until 9:00 p.m. Free parking is available directly behind the house in designated stalls.

For information, please call 432-3093.

DALE SPENDER SHARES HER IDEAS

In late September and early October, 1985, Dr. Dale Spender, currently residing in London, England, will be a Distinguished Visiting Professor to the University of Alberta. Originally from Australia, Dale Spender is a well-known feminist writer whose books include Women of Ideas and What Men Have Done to Them, 1982, There's Always Been a Women's Movement in this Century, 1983 and Man Made Language, 1980. Her books are in part a recording of women's accomplishments which have never been written down in widely-distributed books. She talks about the obstacles involved in reclaiming our histories and shows how words have silenced women.

Dale Spender is being brought to Canada by the University of Alberta Vice-President's Committee on Women's Studies through assistance from the Endowment Fund for the Future. She will be speaking on numerous occasions, the majority of which will be accessible to the public and at no charge.

COUNSELLING GIRLS AND WOMEN (FOR HELPING PROFESSIONALS) (1320)

It has been recognized that women are socialized in a manner that is different from that of men. If counselling is to be a productive process for women, it is essential that the nature of the female experience be examined and understood by counsellors. Toward this end a two-day workshop for helping professionals involved with counselling girls and women has been designed. The goal of this workshop is threefold:

- to examine issues and research relevant to women's issues in counselling
- to increase personal awareness of participants' attitudes, values and behaviors in the context of their relevance to counselling girls and women
