Le mandat de l'ICREF est d'encourager, de coordonner et de rendre accessible la recherche sur les femmes, ainsi que d'assurer une présence égale aux femmes et à leur expérience dans l'ensemble de la recherche sur le Canada, sur son peuple, sa culture, son économie et son activité politique. Une des activités de recherche de l'ICREF consiste en un colloque annuel à thème. Le thème de cette année, Vision globale/action locale, s'ouvre sur de multiples interprétations. Questions to consider in writing your proposal include: How does your work relate to the theme of women's experiences? Why is it important? How does your work relate to the local context in which you are doing it? How is your relationship to your work (location) reflected in your work?

Women in psychology, for example, may wish to address the way that feminist theory assumes a different location for both therapist and client than does traditional therapy. Women working on legal or constitutional issues in Canada could speak to the way those issues are addressed in their immediate locale and consider the implications for women elsewhere in Canada. And women concerned about poverty and economic development in Canada could relate that to the international context of women's development. In any event, your presentation should relate your work to local, national and international contexts.

Tues. Mar. 26
- started at 9:20 to 11:50

Presentations may take a variety of forms such as research papers or videos, audio-visual presentations, or video or performance art presentations. Sessions could consist of several 20-30 minute papers or may range up to more lengthy workshops. The deadline for submission of abstracts or proposals is 30 April 1981. Your proposal should be addressed to:

En 1991, le colloque de l'Institut canadien de recherches sur les femmes (ICREF) aura lieu du 8 au 10 novembre à l'hôtel Westin d'Edmonton en Alberta, sous le thème Vision globale/action locale. Nos conférencières invitées, Glenda Simms (présidente du Conseil consultatif canadien sur la situation de la femme) et Claire bonenfant (vice-présidente des conseils régionaux à la Fédération des femmes du Québec) feront le lien entre les démarches de recherche "locales" et des situations "globales". Le Comité organisateur vous promet une soirée de divertissement tout à fait spéciale le samedi, ainsi que d'autres activités culturelles et récréatives.

Edmonton, une ville amicale et vivante près du 53<sup>e</sup> parallèle, reçoit plus d'heures de soleil que n'importe quelle grande ville du Canada. L'hôtel Westin, situé au centre-ville, vous permet d'accéder au moyen de tunnels et de trottoirs couverts, à quantité d'endroits intéressants. Edmonton vous offre entre autres la librairie Common Woman, du théâtre, des restaurants, des sites historiques, un quartier chinois, le vieux Strathcona et, évidemment, le West Edmonton Mall. Vous pouvez obtenir plus de renseignements auprès du Edmonton Convention & Tourism Authority, 9797 avenue Jasper #104, Edmonton AB, T5J 1N9, (403) 426-4715 sur semaine.

Le mandat de l'ICREF est d'encourager, de coordonner et de rendre accessible la recherche sur les femmes, ainsi que d'assurer une présence égale aux femmes et à leur expérience dans l'ensemble de la recherche sur le Canada, sur son peuple, sa culture, son économie et son activité politique. Une des activités de recherche de l'ICREF consiste en un colloque annuel à thème. Le thème de cette année, Vision globale/action locale, s'ouvre sur de multiples interprétations. Les questions suivantes peuvent vous aider à préciser votre projet: Quel est le lien entre mon travail et celui d'autres femmes au Canada ou ailleurs? Comment mon travail reflète-t-il le contexte local où j'opère, ou ma propre relation avec mon travail et avec le contexte local où je m'inscris?

Dans le domaine de la psychologie, par exemple, certaines femmes pourraient examiner comment la thérapie féministe assigne une place différente à la thérapeute et à sa cliente par rapport à la thérapie traditionnelle. D'autres femmes qui travaillent sur des questions légales ou constitutionnelles au Canada peuvent s'attarder sur l'impact de ces questions sur les femmes de leur communauté et les conséquences pour d'autres femmes, ailleurs au Canada. Celles qui se préoccupent de la pauvreté et du développement économique au Canada, peuvent faire le lien avec la place des femmes dans le développement international. Dans tous les cas, votre présentation devrait situer votre travail communautaire ou académique dans un contexte "local" et inclure une explication ou une description de ses implications "globales".
